

Something to be done at Marshalls Creek — What? When?

By JIM SHAFER
Pocono Record Reporter
MARSHALLS CREEK — "There will be some changes made here at the intersection of Business Rt. 209 and Rt. 203, but just when they will be I do not know," Monroe County Superintendent of Highways William Quinn said Friday.

In addition to state highway men there is now several representatives from the federal government in the area and studying the situation. We have talked about many things as possibilities to correct the situation. However, we will have to wait and see what the federal government has to offer before we can make our move," Quinn added.

Possible action
Some of the possibilities discussed have been a "ripple strip", traffic signals, blinker lights, resurfacing, and redesigning the intersection. A ripple strip, according to Quinn, is something new in the east. It is used mostly in the west where there are long straight stretches and then an intersection. The vehicle passes over the slight elevations in the highway, creating a sound inside the vehicle which draws the attention to the driver that "something is up".

"The intersection should be redesigned to eliminate present conditions, the intersection with Rt. 402, and to eliminate the situation coming from a two-lane traffic flow into a three-lane traffic flow and then back into a two-lane traffic flow," Quinn said.

"That's impossible and I'll tell you why," Quinn added.

"First Secretary of Highways Robert Bartlett has ordered that all major highways have the white strip painted on the outside edge of the road before July 4. As we were applying the dusting oil the paint truck was right in back of us.

"Had any of the oil gotten on the highway the paint would either peel off or turn brown. We have walked the entire distance, from the curve to the intersection, and we have found not one place where the oil got on the road. In fact, we didn't even find a place where a vehicle had crossed the freshly painted line," he concluded.

"The intersection of Route 209 and Business Route 203 was the scene of five accidents in four days this week. One of the accidents, the upsetting of a bus, resulted in 12 injuries.

Other crashes involved four trucks and a car and all have been linked with construction of the highways involved and rain which fell almost steadily this week.

Saigon defenders prepare for attack

SAIGON (AP)—Saigon's defenders broke out extra machine guns, sand bags and barbed wire Friday night with Viet Cong and North Vietnamese infiltrators reported pushing closer to the capital for a possible new attack.

Though there were no reports of significant new action in and around Saigon, Vietnamese forces were on full alert.

The heightened alert was attributed in part to information obtained from two high-ranking Viet Cong officers captured within the past few days by South Vietnamese troops. One captive, a lieutenant colonel or colonel in the enemy command's capital military district, gave the South Vietnamese "important" tactical information about the planned new offensive, sources said.

American officers said U.S. troops in the Saigon environs were on normal alert status. "We're as fully alert all the time," said one. "Our whole set-up across the country is to be 100 per cent ready all the time."

Although 12,500 enemy troops are believed to be hiding in the jungled, marshy terrain around Saigon, South Vietnamese sources reported only small-scale enemy movements — presumably scouting parties — Friday night.

Intelligence sources said, however, that enemy infiltration into the capital military district had been stepped up within the past two days. A Viet Cong prisoner, seized after he strayed from his unit, was quoted as saying he was among 200 enemy troops who infiltrated into Gia Dinh, a suburb north of the city, Thursday night.

Several big guns and recoilless rifles have been positioned at the Binh Loi Bridge in Gia Dinh, gateway to the capital.

At military headquarters inside Saigon, nerve center for combat operations around the capital, defenses were bolstered with additional machine guns, sand bags and barbed wire. The U.S. Command has 6,000 troops on the edges of Saigon and another 4,000 stationed inside the city.

U.S. officers say the aim of another assault on Saigon is to strengthen Hanoi's bargaining position at the peace talks in Paris.

While Saigon prepared, U.S. Air Force planes carried out "top priority" raids against suspected enemy staging bases and infiltration points near the city. B-52 bombers carried out eight raids Thursday and early Friday on three sides of Saigon.

Laos asks Viet Cong to leave

PARIS (AP)— Prince Souvanna Phouma of Laos called Friday for the withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from his country as a key to an effective cease-fire in Vietnam.

"If you stopped the bombardment of North Vietnam without the removal of (North Vietnamese) troops from Laos, how could the Americans accept the situation? It would leave their western flank uncovered," the Laotian premier told a group of reporters.

The United States has raised the Laotian question at the Paris peace talks, but the North Vietnamese have refused to discuss that or any other issue until the United States halts bombing raids over the North.

Laos, which stretches along the entire western boundary of North Vietnam and about 250 miles along South Vietnam's border, has been used as a major route for North Vietnamese arms and troops pouring into the South.

Souvanna, here on a private visit, said that without a supply line through Laos, North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam would have to be withdrawn or regrouped.

When and if the issues of U.S. bombing over the North and North Vietnamese evacuation of Laos are settled, Souvanna said, the entire discussion of South-east Asia should be handed over to a big international conference including Asian, European and American representatives.

Then, he said, any settlement worked out should be supervised by an enlarged International Control Commission (ICC), operating by majority vote. The existing commission is made up of India, Canada and Poland, with each country having veto power.

"They live very well," Souvanna said of the ICC, "but they don't do much work."

77 arrested in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police arrested 77 persons Friday as they demonstrated on the Capitol steps in support of the Poor People's Campaign.

The group included about 30 Quakers—members of the Society of Friends—who held a half-hour meeting or service on a sun-baked Capitol plaza before joining the others to be arrested.

Demonstrations on Capitol grounds are illegal.

Three weeks of grace

Sirhan wins delay in trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan—slight, erect, expressionless—walked into a heavily guarded jail chapel Friday and received a three-week postponement of his plea to a charge of murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

"Yes, sir," the 24-year-old Jordanian immigrant responded politely three times to the judge's questions. Sirhan was nearly dwarfed by four husky sheriff's deputies who stood near him throughout the nine-minute hearing.

The delay was asked by veteran criminal attorney Russell E. Parsons, who took over Sirhan's defense, at the accused's request and without fee, nine days ago. Parsons said he had only "limited time" to study the transcript of grand jury testimony.

The hearing was held in the third-floor chapel of the Los Angeles County Central Jail—a large, oblong, plain room with oak pews for about 350 persons.

Around 175 attended—news-men, plainclothes detectives, a score or more members of the public. Sirhan's brother Adel, 29, escorted by several police detectives, was a front-row spectator.

Security measures were extreme. Deputies frisked spectators—even Sheriff Peter J. Pichess—as they reached the building. Pocket knives were temporarily confiscated—even a money clip with a pen knife in it.

There was a television crew from Home, along with reporters from France and other lands.

The proceedings, scheduled for 9 a.m., went like this: 9:01 a.m. A deputy announces that "anyone who stands or moves about will be removed from the courtroom."

9:05. Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer takes his place, standing, behind a lectern at the rear of the platform. For the stenographer's record he announces that "these facilities—the jail chapel—instead of a regular courtroom—are to insure the defendant's security."

Then: "Bring in the defendant."

Sirhan and the four deputies enter from a door onstage to the audience's right.

Still not fully recovered from finger and ankle injuries received during his capture at the assassination scene, he has been brought by wheelchair from his cell to outside the courtroom.

But now—on contrast to his arraignment in the same room on June 7—Sirhan is able to walk into the chapel.

He wears a light blue shirt, tight black pants and well-polished black loafers. He has no necktie. His face is pale and appears freshly shaved. His kinky black hair, apparently freshly cut, is neatly combed.

"Your name is Sirhan Bishara Sirhan?" the judge asks.

"Yes, sir." His voice is level, even, matter-of-fact. It is amplified through a microphone in front of him to a temporary loudspeaker.

"You desire to substitute Mr. Parsons for the public defender?"

Rate rise retroactive to April 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed Friday the bill adding 10 per cent to most taxpayers' income tax and requiring him to cut his budget $6 billion if Congress itself does not do so.

Even so, because the tax is retroactive to April 1 for individuals, an estimated 1 to 2 million taxpayers will owe an additional sum next April, while some 60 million will receive smaller refunds than they would have otherwise.

Those in the lowest bracket are exempt.

For corporations, the extra tax applies to the full 1968 income.

In 15 days, employers must begin withholding an additional 10 per cent from employees' pay.

The new law, over which Congress and the executive branch have been tussling for most of a year, also provides a speed-up of corporation tax collections.

It continues the excise taxes on automobiles at 7 per cent and telephone service at 10 per cent, instead of letting them drop to 2 per cent and 1 per cent respectively as existing law provided.

The combination of tax measures is estimated to yield $15.2 billion in the year starting July 1. The surtax expires at the end of that year unless extended, but there already is talk that an extension will be required.

As Johnson signed the bill, he issued a statement saying the $6 billion in spending cuts it imposes is too much. He said Congress will be unable to slice that much from the budget he submitted in January.

Church worker denies drug, murder plot

WASHINGTON (AP) — church youth worker denied to investigating senators Friday he conspired with a minister and a Negro teen gang to "plot murders, transport marijuana, mastermind extortion rings" or engage in other criminal activities.

Charles LaPaglia, a social worker employed by the First Presbyterian Church on Chicago's South Side, defended his work for the Blackstone Rangers gang as "an attempt to find something better than stop-gap solutions to the most pressing problems of the ghetto."

Earlier, top leaders of the United Presbyterian Church of the United States praised the Rev. John R. Fry for what they said were his brilliant and creative attempts in working with the Rangers to solve the problems of the poor and ease racial tension.

Calling the Senate hearings a "shabby charade" and a "travesty on fair play," they accused members of the permanent Senate investigations subcommittee of using the investigation to hide "the disgraceful way this Congress has shown for the needs of the nation's poor."

LaPaglia denied he ever drove Ranger leaders to Michigan on a gun-buying spree or that he ever carried marijuana in his car at the request of the Rangers.

Shafer signs bill for two toll-free spans

Same old story

Cost of living continues to rise

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer signed into law Friday a bill authorizing the construction of two toll-free bridges over the Delaware River in the Lehigh and Delaware valley areas.

Shafer and Highway's Secretary Robert G. Bartlett hailed the legislation in separate statements as "significant" and "a great step forward."

The bridges are to be constructed to carry interstate highways across the river between Bristol, Pa., and Burlington, N. J., and Easton, Pa., and Phillipsburg, N. J.

Individual members of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission, including Edward K. Driebe, its new chairman, opposed the legislation on the ground that the toll-free bridges would hurt the agency financially.

"I know that the commission, under its dedicated new chairman, Edward K. Driebe, will carry out the mandate of the legislation with dispatch," Shafer said.

Both spans are to be financed by 50 per cent federal aid and 10 per cent state, with Pennsylvania and New Jersey sharing that cost.

Shafer also signed a bill extending for a year, to July 1, 1969, the deadline for counties to submit their plans to implement the Mental Health and Retardation Act of 1966.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs continued climbing in May at an annual rate of more than four cents on the dollar and a federal official said Friday no letup is in sight in the nation's steepest price rise in 17 years.

Sharp increases in prices of clothing and food led the overall rise of three-tenths of one per cent in living costs last month, pushing to government's Consumer Price Index to 120.3. The index shows it cost $12.03 in May to buy goods and services which cost $10 in the 1957-59 period on which the index is based.

The average cost of food, clothing, housing, transportation, medical care and recreation measured in the index was 4.1 per cent above May 1967 and climbing at the same rate so far in 1968.

IRS reports on tax form

PHILADELPHIA — Do you have a household employee? If you do, you may be required to file Form 942, Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees, Seymour I. Friedman, District Director of Internal Revenue for Eastern Pennsylvania, said today.

Social Security taxes are due when $50 or more in cash wages is paid to any employee in a calendar quarter for services of a household nature, Mr. Friedman said.

The Bureau reported also that average wages of 45 million rank-and-file workers, more than half the nation's labor force, rose $1.59 a week to a record high of $106.03 because of a two-cent rise in average hourly earnings and a longer work week.

But because of rising prices, purchasing power of the average paycheck was still 37 cents a week below the high point of last year.

Chase said the recently enacted 10 per cent income tax surcharge will have some effect on slowing the upward price spiral, but not for several months.

The tax hike will reduce take-home pay and workers' purchasing power and result first in weakening demand for durable goods such as automobiles and household appliances, Chase said.

Clothing prices rose nine-tenths of one per cent in May, food four-tenths, housing and medical care three-tenths each and transportation one-tenth. Recreation costs were up three-tenths of one per cent.

The value of the 1968 dollar compared with that of 1957-59 dropped from 83.4 cents in April to 83.1 cents in May.

Food prices usually drop in May, but this time increases included 1.9 per cent for fruits and vegetables, 1.2 per cent for dairy products and six-tenths of one per cent for meat.

The only price declines of consequence were for eggs, strawberries and cucumbers.

"It doesn't appear like we will get very much reduction in food prices at least until next fall," Chase said.

The Bureau reported also that wholesale prices rose two-tenths of one per cent in May, bringing that index up to 108.5, and a further two-tenths rise is indicated by preliminary figures for June.

A one per cent rise in wholesale prices of farm products and processed foods was responsible for the May increase.

About 210,000 workers with cost-of-living clauses in their labor contracts will get pay increases ranging from one to six cents an hour based on quarterly semiannual or annual increases in the Consumer Price Index. Most are in the aerospace and meatpacking industries.

PSEA backs proposals for strikes

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania State Education Association gave a qualified endorsement Friday to a proposal that public employees be guaranteed a limited right to strike in search of better job contracts. While supporting the principle, PSEA President Joseph Standa cautioned, however, against the advisability of requiring new elections to determine bargaining agents for public employees.

The report of the gubernatorial panel created to recommend changes in the state's anti-strike public employees law would permit a walk-out so long as it did not endanger the public health, safety or welfare.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — Switching to decimal currency cost the government $7.6 million but it came up with a $3.6 million profit after counting what it gained by selling souvenir coins and metal from the old coins.

Up Milford Way

Chamber alive again

MILFORD — After two failures to have a quorum present, the Pike County Chamber of Commerce had a lively meeting on Monday evening.

Arthur Ogden, the Tourism and Recreation Chairman, gave a particularly interesting report on the Spring Travel Workshop, held at the York View Inn, and the activities of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau, an organization to which he is the official Chamber representative.

The Chamber voted to disperse with regular meetings during the months of July and August when activity for most of the directors is at fever pitch. Regular meetings will be resumed in September.

The Chamber also voted to again cooperate in the staging of the Annual Tri-State Canoe Regatta on the Delaware River. They will again donate trophies to the members of the canoe team turning in the fastest time of any of the entries from Pike County.

During the first two years that the race was held, the winners of the Chamber trophies were also the fastest team in the race. Dale Smith, a counselor at Camp Spears in Delaware Township, was a member of the winning team each year. In 1966 he teamed with Bill Wohlfritz and in 1967 his canoe mate was Marcel Miles.

Last year, when a special trophy was introduced for competition among the camp entries, both winners were from Pike County. Camp Spears captured the boys' trophy and Camp Akenae, also located in Delaware Township, won the girls' competition.

Plans for the event, which is tentatively scheduled to be held on the second Sunday in August, are just getting under way with the first organization meeting having been held this week. The event is sponsored by the City Recreation Department of Port Jervis. It is held between Travers Beach, Barryville, N.Y., and Port Jervis.

THE COMMANDERSHIP of March-Kellogg Post, American Legion of Milford, was decided at a special election meeting on Tuesday evening. Alvin Matthey was re-elected by a one-vote margin over Cornelius Bonner. A tie vote had previously been recorded between the two men at the regular election meeting.

Other past officers elected included: Senior Vice Commander, Caesar Chiappini; Junior Vice Commander, Alfred

Pen Argyl area chorus performances are set

PEN ARGYL — The Pen Argyl Area Summer Community Chorus will meet for the fourth summer in the chorus room at the high school on Tuesday night.

The chorus will again be directed by Thoburn E. Cassidy, vocal music teacher at the high school, and as has been in past years, the school district is again sponsoring this activity.

The first meeting has been set for 7:30 p.m. and the chorus will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays for a six-week period. An outdoor concert will be presented at the end of the six weeks.

Peter Ronca 88 years old

ROSETO — Peter Ronca of Roseto, who is still continuing his blacksmith trade by forging drills and hammers for the slate industry, will celebrate his 88th birthday today.

Ronca began working in the slate quarries when nine years old and picked up the blacksmith trade.

Married for 63 years and the father of three sons, Ronca said he is continuing working because "people who work don't get old."

The executive committee for the organization has been meeting regularly and plans have been made to strive to make this the largest chorus yet. Information has been led to old members, prospective new members, and to various church choirs and civic organizations.

Membership is open to all persons within commuting distance of Pen Argyl, and the age range includes personnel from the Senior High School level through adults.

In the past, this chorus has furnished an outlet for many adults to sing who are interested in such characteristics as informality.

Officers for K of C are elected

STROUDSBURG — Truman T. Burnett was re-elected faithful navigator of the Father John T. Dwyer Assembly, 4084 Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, at a meeting this week in the K of C Home off North Ninth Street.

Burnett resides at 1045 Dreher Ave., Stroudsburg, and is a charter member of the local council, having been the first grand knight. He has also served as trustee, and been an officer of the Columbus Home Association since its inception. He is also a member of the color guard.

Other officers elected were: James M. Brennan, faithful captain; John Morasky, faithful pilot; John Sullivan, faithful inside sentinel; Harrison Place, faithful outside sentinel; Anthony F. Archer, faithful burser and Charles Dellaria, faithful comptroller.

Rev. Robert Gibson is faithful friar of the assembly and William Digniss the faithful marshal.

Congressman Fred Rooney received the honor of the fourth degree with the class and spoke in behalf of the class of candidates at that time.

This will be the third season for the Lyric Arts Company who began their local operations in the near seclusion of Sagamore at Twin Lakes in the summer of 1966.

While the company's efforts and that of the fine young professional talent they employ has added a new dimension to entertainment in the area, success has been neither rapid nor overwhelming. There have been many times when the Rices, both of whom are widely known as voice instructors, have been tempted to throw in the sponge. They did not do so because they did not wish to disappoint the small group of workers and supporters who have backed the venture strongly, because these people wished to have the company's fine performances become part of the area's cultural scene.

GARY GROSIMOND, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Eugene "Jack" Grosimond, formerly of Milford, who is a member of the Seabreeze High School tennis team of Sarasota, Fla., has been named one of four boys from that state to tour the country in a series of tournaments prior to the national championship.

RC churches change Mass

NEWFOUNDLAND — Masses at St. Mary Magdalene Roman Catholic Church, South Sterling, will be at 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. on Sunday, according to Msgr. Joseph Quinn, who has also announced that, beginning on July 7, the 9:30 a.m. service will be moved to the Newfoundland Arts Center. The 11 a.m. Mass will continue at South Sterling.

In other schedule changes, these hours are announced for the summer, beginning June 30: St. Ann's, Tobyhanna — 8, 10, 12 noon.

St. Rita's, Gouldsboro — 7:30, 9, 10:30 a.m.

Our Lady of the Lake, Pocono Lake — 8, 9:30, 11 a.m.

The Mass at the Newfoundland Arts Center is an innovation this year, planned because St. Mary Magdalene's Chapel is not large enough to accommodate the number of people who attend service.

Abandoned cars or those left along the highway have become a point of discussion in recent days because of cars parked off the road for a considerable length of time within the confines of Monroe County.

The number one conversation piece is the car parked off Route 80, between Exit 50 and the Seventh St. bridge.

There are a number of rulings that govern action on cars allowed to remain along highways.

State Police report that a car is not officially abandoned until after 30 days, after which time they can order it towed away. However, if the parked car is a traffic hazard or it is known to be stolen it may be moved immediately.

Chief Jack Tretheway of the Stroudsburg Borough Police said that 72 hours must elapse before he can have a car towed away from a borough roadway. However, as stated by State Police, the borough force will have a car towed away immediately if it obstructs traffic or is known to be stolen.

The car parked off Route 80, between the Seventh St. bridge and Exit 50, has drawn conversation because it is without license and interested passersby have found that the inspection sticker has since outlived its usefulness.

We have been told that a car can be towed without a license and that it is a common practice to remove licenses from cars left along highways for a number of reasons, including a safeguard against having the license stolen.

Police report that the owners of the car described above have made arrangements to have it removed and that it is not an officially abandoned car. It will not be towed away unless borough police feel that the owners aren't making a true effort to claim the vehicle.

In other words, cars become abandoned after police use common sense in judgment or the owners truly violate an established law.

Helicopters for police

A plan to provide a helicopter patrol program for the Pennsylvania State Police is now under way. The plan calls for federal financial aid in the program.

As of this moment there is a one-year experimental program, with a helicopter working in the Philadelphia area—where it's needed least.

It is our opinion that the success or failure of such a program can't be determined in Philadelphia, where hospitals are nearby to every point, as are police locations and other emergency needs.

We feel that a true helicopter patrol must prove its worth in locations where police, hospitals and other needs are at extreme points and not within a moment's drive. A helicopter couldn't possibly show its true worth in a heavily populated area such as Philadelphia.

However, this same helicopter patrol could prove without the slightest doubt that it would be a necessary part of the State Police routine if it were to operate in localities such as covered by Monroe, Pike and Wayne counties.

Accidents are frequent and the need for police and emergency trips to hospitals are great. The helicopter would bring about much quicker trips to hospitals and would greatly speed the arrival of police assistance.

According to plans, two helicopters will be used by the State Police as of the fiscal year beginning July 1 and eight by 1973. The cost of operation, which is estimated as $178,000 for the first year and two million dollars for five years, will be shared equally by the federal and state governments.

The program was born, according to reports, from a three-year study.

We fully support the use of helicopters by State Police. However, we feel they are needed in sparsely populated areas, not heavily populated localities.

Gold found in Bible

By Robert Svensson
Man's marriage to gold has been a stormy one, and a long one. He first laid eyes on the yellow stuff in a stream bed in ancient Lydia, a long forgotten nation of the Far East. That was seven centuries before Christ.

From that day, some 2,600 years ago, to this, gold has blessed and plagued kings and commoners, princes and paupers, and presidents.

It remains so today.

Biblical Gold
The Bible is filled with references to gold, underlining the importance that the unique metal has played in the scheme of things. The Old Testament and the New both refer to gold jewelry, money, ornaments, and raiment.

Good Advice
Perhaps the Bible's best advice regarding gold is found in the JOB 28:15 when we are told that wisdom is unpurchasable. The passage states:

"It cannot be gotten for gold, neither shall silver be weighed for the price thereof."

Perhaps that is what the world needs today—a little more wisdom where gold is concerned. And, to coin collectors, we add this footnote: Gold has been around a long time.

The Allen-Scott Report

SCLC richer by $250,000

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — The so-called "Poor People's Campaign" is turning out to be very profitable for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

While the loudly hooped propaganda drive and "Resurrection City" petered out in a wallow of mud, robberies, assaults and other violence, glaring bungling and chaos, SCLC coffers apparently are being enriched by some $250,000—and the total may run as high as one million dollars.

That's the estimate of congressional investigators who are trying to get at the bottom of SCLC finances and operations.

They are encountering many obstacles and barriers. As a non-profit organization, SCLC files no reports. Its officials, including the late Dr. Martin Luther King, have long refused to volunteer any information about the organization's affairs.

They claim they receive no salaries, but refuse to reveal how their activities are financed. It's assumed that is done through expense accounts. But on what basis and how much is also conjectural.

Many sources

But from various sources both in and outside of SCLC, the following has been learned regarding the flood of contributions still pouring in for the dismembered "Poor People's Campaign":

As of last weekend, when the permit for "Resurrection City" expired and the government prepared to shut it down, more than $1 million in cash and pledges had been received. They included $250,000 from the Field Foundation, N.Y.; $100,000 from the United Presbyterian General Assembly, of which half was cash and the balance pledged; $500,000 from actor Jack Lemmon, from movie earnings; $41,000 from St. Mark's Methodist Church, Chicago; $17,800 from Sammy Davis Jr.; $5,000 from the United Auto Workers in Los Angeles; $3,400 from United Packinghouse Workers.

A large and steady volume of mailed contributions in bills of large and small denominations and checks was received at SCLC headquarters in Washington, Atlanta, Birmingham and other cities in the first month of the "Poor People's" Drive. How much these donations totaled is a SCLC secret. But insiders beamingly hint they "ran into six figures."

The volume of mailed contributions has stacked off considerably since the mud-mired and increasingly disorderly shantytown was shut down. But some money is still coming in daily. How much, of course, is unknown.

Involuntary donors

United States taxpayers also contributed sizably to SCLC's propaganda operation.

It will be some time before the full amount will be known. Costs are still being incurred—in dismantling "Resurrection City"; packing and storing the materials and abandoned personal possessions, including television sets, radios, fans and other electrical appliances; providing food and veterinarian care for the animals of the "mule train"; emergency police and national guard expense; and other charges.

Preliminary estimates indicate the total cost to taxpayers will be around five million dollars.

Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., chairman of the Appropriations subcommittee in charge of the District of Columbia's annual budget, has still-incomplete figures showing the cost to taxpayers of the capital alone will be more than $500,000.

On June 14, Rev. Ralph Abernathy, now serving a 20-day sentence for unlawful assembly at the Capital, told newsmen the "Poor People's Campaign" had cost SCLC $1.5 million and that contributions totaled only $1.3 million.

The SCLC leader carefully did not explain how he arrived at either figure. When pressed by reporters, he curtly cut them off by changing the subject.

There was good reason for Abernathy's touchy silence.

Contributions undoubtedly amounted to $1.3 million—and then some. Exactly how much may never be known.

But how Abernathy could claim that SCLC had spent $1.5 million on the "Poor People's Campaign" is a mystery. Its plywood and canvas shanties were provided by various companies, groups and organizations—all white. The residents and other demonstrators were fed by the government, churches and numerous others. And so much clothing was contributed that huge piles were left behind for the government to store or dispose of.

The only known SCLC expenses were:

Hotel and motel charges for Abernathy and numerous other SCLC officials and their families. None of them spent a night in "Resurrection City." They lived in the best hostels, ate in the best dining places, and shopped in the best stores. At one motel alone they paid a bill of $20,000. Mrs. Abernathy and a group of SCLC wives bought $400 dresses in one of Washington's most expensive stores.

Three trucks and nine automobiles purchased in the capital to provide transportation for the SCLC officials and, on some occasions, shantytown demonstrators. The twelve vehicles were paid for in cash.

Stories Behind Words By William Penfield

IMPECCABLE

When we describe a person as "impeccable," we do not mean that he is without sin.

That, though, is the original meaning of the word. It comes from the Latin "impeccabilis," which was formed from the prefix "im" (not) and the verb "peccare" (to sin).

A person without sin would be faultless. The word lost its religious significance as it became used more and more to describe some faultless or excellent aspect or quality of a person, particularly dress, manners or taste.

nothing either could do to curb growing violence there.

The crimes appeared to be the work of a relatively small number of young Negro toughs, from urban ghettos, whose way of life at home was not much different from that at the Poor People's city.

The problem was that Abernathy and his several hundred marshals could not bring these elements under control either, despite their efforts to do so.

"We have no jail in Resurrection City," one marshal explained to this reporter. "All we can do is throw them out."

Many were thrown out, but many remained. Abernathy promised to "clean house" and toss out all those not committed to non-violence. But incidents of assault and robbery on visitors to the city continued over the weekend.

The violence and disorders at Resurrection City was not entirely the fault of the Poor People.

There was considerable evidence that some members of the Washington police force were sometimes as much out of control as the toughs in the city.

New gun control ideas

Editor, The Record

I am writing in reference to the article written by James H. Price in Tuesday's Record on his views on gun legislation.

I have known Jim for at least 15 years and have always thought of him as a level headed, broadminded individual. I still do. I also agree with him 100 per cent on his views. I feel though that he left out two very important points.

Number one: Take law enforcement away from the politicians and put it back into the hands of our police departments. It certainly must be disgusting to a police officer who has to answer to some graft hungry politician in defense of himself because he tried to uphold law and order and some do-gooder cried police brutality.

Second: Instead of all this noise about gun legislation why not enforce the laws that already exist? Maybe even add some new ones.

Such as imposing a mandatory sentence of five, 10, even 15 years imprisonment for any crime or attempted crime with a gun. This is certainly not beyond reason. Then again, why be reasonable with someone with a gun who is out to rob, harm or kill. The old saying of an "Eye for an Eye and a Tooth for a Tooth" does have some logic.

One other personal view is that I find the ignorance of people, pertaining to gun legislation, more appalling than the gun legislation itself.

Gun legislation has never stopped crime and never will stop crime. It only succeeds in making the honest people more defenseless.

Also, these recent requests by some of our political leaders and some county Sheriffs throughout the country to have people turn in their guns is ridiculous.

I would like to ask everyone reading this article to ask themselves if they honestly believe that gun legislation and the voluntary turning in of "weapons" would prevent future crimes and encourage people of the caliber of the "Capones," the "Nelsons," the "Dillingers," etc., to rush to the closest police station or courthouse to turn in or register their "weapons."

Remember, guns don't kill people, people kill people.

Write to legislators

Editor, The Record

I would like to thank the editor of the Pocono Record for allowing me to express the views of the sportsmen; with regard to proposed firearms legislation, in an article which appeared on Tuesday, June 25, however, I certainly would be remiss if I did not call attention to the fact that nearly two paragraphs were omitted.

Since action on this proposed legislation is expected soon I urge the citizens to write to our legislators, both state and national, and express their views and ask that public hearings be held.

Don't wait for the neighbor to act because those favoring strict legislation are taking advantage of the present state of hysteria.

Prohibition was a failure and I'm sure restrictive gun legislation would also fail. Lots give the police departments the authority to enforce the laws which are now on the books and punish those who use firearms in the commission of crimes.

Remember also, hasty legislation is often bad legislation.

Director, Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs

Opposes registration

Editor, The Record:

This controversy over gun registration is starting to get sickening. Gov. Shafer now wants to register people and charge a fee for it.

If people let him get away with this they are giving up the privacy of their homes, because any time he wants to have you and your guns checked, he can send someone to do so without notice.

His method edges toward dictatorship and will create a high-paying political plum for someone to pick up at the expense of the gun owners.

Also, he is just looking for a way to get some more money for the state ill, because he would charge a five-dollar fee for the right to own your own guns.

Although the State Game Commission is against this registration, I think Shafer could be made to understand the sportsman's view if every man and woman that hunts, would refuse to purchase a hunting license. I wonder how he would propose to run the State Parks, etc., without this money.

Because of a few lamebrains in Washington who are too lazy to hunt or exert themselves in any way except to draw their pay, all gun owners are to suffer.

The Constitution gives us the right to own firearms and it has not been amended any different. This also smells of dictatorship, and Communism. If these idiots want gun laws other than what we have now, but will not let the police enforce, let it be put to a ballot and voted upon by the public. Or is this acting a little too much like a free country to do such a thing?

Having a list of numbers is not going to keep a trigger from being pulled. When a person is arrested for armed robbery or murder, he is turned loose anyway to roam the streets where he can and will get a gun and will not register it.

So, let's settle down and think before this freedom is given away too easily. Because, next, the government will confiscate these same guns they now want registered.

Khrushchev once said he would bury us. This is the beginning; backed by Communists in our own country.

Last week there was a letter in your paper which referred to the prevalence of violence.

The letter was titled "Stage of Evolution". It also referred to the Baha'i Faith whose founder proclaimed for today's world the advent of a new revelation of unity for all mankind.

Polish arrived first

WASHINGTON — In his endorsement of the bill creating a new national holiday in honor of Christopher Columbus, Rep. Roman Pucinski (D-Ill.) rose on the House floor and, of all things, told a Polish joke.

"According to legend," Pucinski said, "when Columbus arrived on these shores, he was greeted by the Indian chiefs with great pomp and ceremony. When the Indians told him that he was the first white man to come here to develop the riches of this continent, Columbus said, 'If that is so, who are those white people up on that mountain?'"

"An Indian chief replied, 'Oh, those are just some folks from Poland who come here every year to pick mushrooms.'"

Definition making the rounds on Capitol Hill: A committee is a group of the uniformed, appointed by the unwilling, to do the unnecessary.

One cynic observes that the "Poor People" staged demonstrations here at the Agriculture Department, the Interior Department, the Justice and the State Departments, etc., almost everywhere except in front of the U.S. Employment Service, where they might have been offered jobs!

While speaking at the National Press Club, Rev. Ralph Abernathy was asked about the goals of the Poor People's Campaign. His answer: "Come on now, you know what we want, we want MORE!"

The mass arrest at the Capitol and in Resurrection City allowed the Poor People to remain true to their own "jail house tradition" while sparing Washington another major disorder as was feared.

More significantly, it allowed the non-violent leaders of SCLC to save face and thus perhaps their control over a movement threatening to become more violent any day.

The movement is not likely to end with the destruction of Resurrection City, for the poor people of this country appear to be on a long march.

As Abernathy said Monday before being led away to jail, "Resurrection City is but a symbol of poverty."

"We intended to continue our fight to 'redeem the soul of America.' We will fill the jails, we will plague the Congress and the economy until there is justice in this land."

Spotlight on individual instruction

School at Pocono

By PETE GRADY
Pocono Record Reporter
SWIFTWATER — "I T S . . space, H A T . . space, F T P . . stroke," Mrs. Margaret Coates, sixth grade typist teacher said.

In the individual reading classroom a teacher sat by her one and only pupil as he read a sentence in a book. The student would soon move on to another individual instruction class in Math.

Downstairs in the music room some band members were warming up for the coming school year activities.

About 345 students have been enrolled in Pocono Mountain School District summer school sessions.

The present three week session, June 20-July 12 includes 125 elementary resident pupils and 25 tuition students from various area summer camps.

New programs include elementary and secondary music which will comprise three school bands; elementary, junior high and intermediate. A high school concert will be given later in the summer, according to Russel Speicher, band director.

Another new program is the sixth grade typing course. Tuesday a group of boys and girls sat straight at attention, concentrating on the rhythm of the typewriter keys with their feet braced firmly on the floor as Mrs. Coates reviewed their finger practice.

The other three weeks elementary session runs from July 15-Aug. 2. About 110 pupils are enrolled in this session.

The secondary six week session, June 20-Aug 2, includes 125 resident students and 25 tuition students.

One unique feature of some of the new summer school programs is a 1:1 pupil-teacher ratio in which individual instruction is paramount.

Corrective enrichment techniques are highlighted in the reading and math courses.

Elementary and secondary programs stress remedial and enrichment techniques. Students average two 80 minute periods a day, from 8 a.m. - 2:20 p.m.

The school district is now in its fourth year of offering a summer school program.

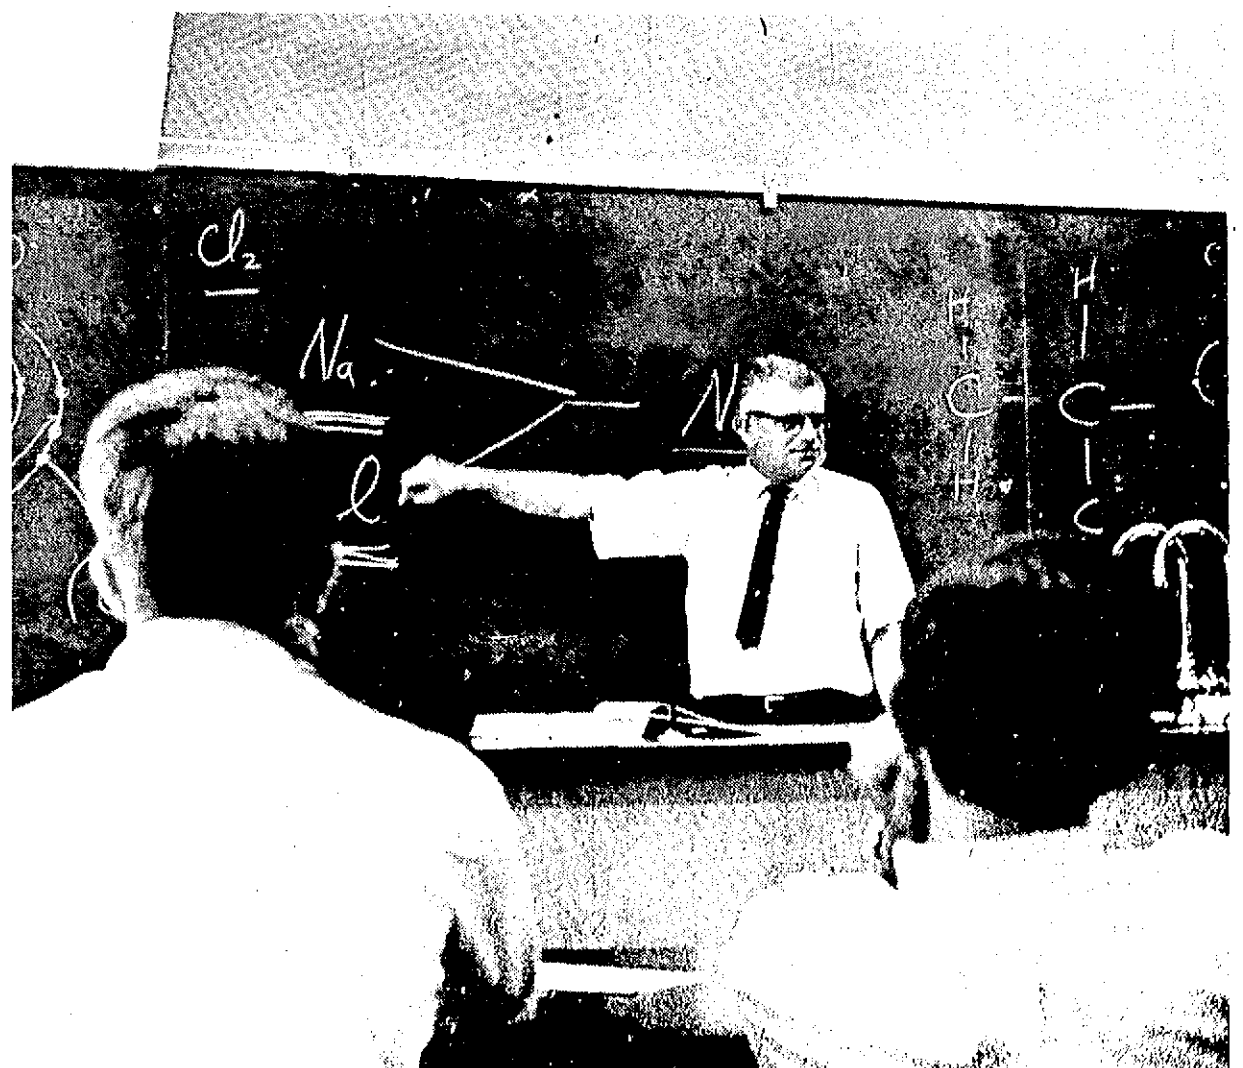

"Summer programs challenge the student," Mrs. Florence Miller, school district guidance teacher said Tuesday. "The smaller the class, the more individual the attention. In individual instruction a child gets a chance to put its best academic foot forward."

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

It's a lesson I should have learned long ago, not to boast about how brave I am. I can remember the first time I had to prove it. I was about six when my mother, hearing me teasing a little sister about being afraid of the dark, challenged me to walk down to the sundial and back in the pitch dark.

Going out wasn't so bad with the lighted windows behind me, but coming back with all the blackness snapping at my heels was sheer terror and only my pride kept my steps timed to about every ten thundering heartbeats.

But nothing "got" me, and I still believe strongly that whatever could happen to me wouldn't be as horrible as living in constant terror of what might happen; that, even in these dangerous days, fear of violence can attract it.

More people have been bitten by dogs and stung by bees because they are afraid of dogs and bees than those who simply aren't consciously aware of any menace. I think, like dogs and bees, other people can smell fear, too, and it affects them with the same irritation.

So here's Fearless Fosdick, me, arriving in town on a 3 a.m. bus on a foggy night, with the only taxi in town fogbound up near Bushkill. I was faced with spending another sleepless hour in the diner or a ten-minute walk to get the car, pick up my luggage and get home.

I considered the alternatives. Common sense said "wait," but then I had the happy thought that 3 a.m. isn't really late at night; it's early in the morning. All evil-doers are worn out with their evil-doing, and the righteous have only a few hours sleep before they rise to begin doing good.

And so it proved. The lights, reflecting back from the fog seemed extraordinarily bright; the deserted streets extraordinarily clean and familiar. What I hadn't counted on was the flash of lightning and crash of thunder, and even worse than that, the way my footsteps echoed and re-echoed behind me.

I didn't run, but I'll admit the trip only took me five minutes instead of ten. But the pay-off was that, stimulated by the adventure, I didn't get to sleep until 5 anyway. Serves me right.

MEAT TURNOVERS
2 cups unsifted regular flour
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 pound (1 stick) butter
1 container (1/2 pint) commercial sour cream
Beef Filling (see below)
1 egg yolk lightly beaten with 1 tablespoon water

In medium mixing bowl stir together flour and salt. With pastry blender, cut in butter until size of small peas. With fork, gradually work in sour cream. Shape into a square. On prepared pastry cloth with prepared pocket-covered rolling pin, roll out to an exact 12-inch square; cut into nine 4-inch squares. Add Beef Filling (about 1 tablespoon) off center to each square; fold over into triangle shape. Press edges together with fork tines. Place a few inches apart, on ungreased cookie sheet. Brush with egg yolk mixture. Bake in preheated 375-degree oven until browned — about 20 minutes. Serve hot.

Meat Filling: In an 8-inch skillet, crumble with a fork, cook 1/2 pound ground lean beef in 2 tablespoons butter. Add 1/4 cup finely chopped onion, 1 chopped hard-cooked egg, 1/4 teaspoon salt, one-sixteenth teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon flour and 1/4 cup cold water. Cook lightly, stirring; cool.

Edit your own fashions

By BOBBY WESTBROOK
Family Fare Editor

NEW YORK — Just as every artist paints a different picture of the same subject, each couture designer has a different interpretation of current fashion trends.

Within the general framework of the current mood, shape and color of fashion there are infinite variations. This is important because the basic tenet of fashion sense is that it should make a woman look well in the clothes of her time.

Fashion isn't just for The Beautiful People who are not always beautiful, but, because of money, position and-or fame, are named to the Best Dressed List. Oddly enough, the less money a woman has to spend on clothes the more time she must spend choosing them.

The New York Couture Business Council featured both name designers and Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery Ward so that current fashions are available. Whether a woman buys her clothes at a quality shop, from the racks of her favorite department store, or makes them herself, she must be her own fashion editor.

Monte-Sano would be a good tutor. His collection pointed up the overall dressier look achieved by the choice of fabrics: in-depth tweeds, lustrous finish wools, or the understated use of velvets, wool faille, furs.

It also pointed up a new point of interest. No longer pre-occu-pled with hemlines, he points the eye toward the face by the use of large emphatic collars or giant mobile scarves. His waistlines are not tight but are apparent by means of curved seaming and the use of important belts. Longer jacketed suits have seamed natural waistlines over gentle little peplums.

Nat Kaplan specializes in "the occasion dress." This year his daytime clothes are more elegant and there is less glitter on his after-five concoctions. What glitter there is is distinctive, however, like thin pipings of baguette rhinestones to outline necklines and sleeves in a series of cocktail and evening dresses in pastel-toned silk-and-wool twill.

While the silhouette is basically slim-lined and ladylike, dresses can be worn with or without a belt, and his skirts are straight-lined rather than very full with the hemline stabilized just above the knee.

Jo Copeland for the Pattullo-Jo Copeland collection, concentrates on the woman: "I hate the obvious, the dress that says 'look at me.' It should attract attention to the woman, not itself."

However, she is not above surprise elements. A dress and jacket in a deep pink velvety duvetyn with mink cuffs is actually a sleeveless jacket with the mink cuffs belonging to the long-sleeved dress.

The Mignon collection by Dorothy Farbo features the Spanish look with portrait necklines and long slim sleeves reminiscent of Valazquez, as are the fabrics velvet and cut-velvet and full bodied silks.

Another Spanish look is in the equestrian swagger of the maxi-length Matador dinner suit. One such suit in black slipper satin has a cummerbund waistline and a short jacket opening over a jabot blouse of white Venice lace, shown with high black Spanish-y boots.

Eloise Curtis for David Styne gathers inspiration from the East with lurex embroidery on the fitted midriff of a gray flannel dress with a four-gore skirt, or a coat dress costume in camel knit with inverted pleats with stripes for collar cuff and side band and border stripes for a box pleated skirt with brass tassel trim.

She has a crepe evening dress with a peeping middle, its skirt chained and buttoned to a sleeveless top, and all bare between. A leather dress is marked with crystal and velvet.

B. H. Wragge designs his collection with a coordinated color theme for round the clock wear. Some dresses are two-in-one for travel. One is dark brown twill in a shirt shape with a dressier white jersey dress beneath to be worn separately or as a team. Daytime jumpers change their image to dinner wools when they shed their choir boy crepe blouses. He featured body tweeds from tiny salt and pepper flecks to blanket plaids.

The epitome of luxury — Monte-Sano designs the "mink suit" for the affluent woman of fall, 1968. A stitched white satin blouse tucks into the dirndl skirt, sashed in emerald satin. Over all this elegance is placed a short cropped jacket.

Three penny hit by B. H. Wragge shows the mix and match trend. B. H. Wragge captures it in a white hi-necked jersey top matched to a goied skirt with a great Norfolk-type sleeveless jacket in coral red and white wool plaid.

Above . . . From the old court of Cambodia came the inspiration for this dress of mauve and gold in a high rise bodice and full skirt with its lantern sleeves ending in brown mink cuffs by Eloise Curtis for the David Styne collection. Metallic chiffon weight brocade appears in many collections.

The little black dress . . . taper slim satin, shows three important fashion trends: the scarf at the neckline, the jeweled belt at the waistline and a swath of black fox spotlighting the hemline. Designed by Jo Copeland from the Pattullo-Jo Copeland Collection. It was shown with silver shoes with midi heel.

The maxi isn't dead, just lurking. Here is the maxi suit of imported beige brocade designed by Dorothy Farbo for Mignon with theatre goers in mind. The slimly cut, shaped jacket tops a beige chiffon dandy shirt, the skirt falls to 11 inches above the floor.

Co. 'C' ends stay in field

CAMP DRUM, N.Y. — Two hundred local soldiers will return home Saturday after two weeks of training with Company C, First Battalion (Mechanized), 109th Infantry here.

The soldiers spent a five-day bivouac in the field which ended last Saturday.

They arrived at the army camp on June 14 to get unpacked, oriented and settled down for one night before moving out into the field for the remainder of the week.

Late Sunday afternoon Co. "C" commander Capt. Ronald C. Shick gave the word to move out and from then on all movements were tactical. Co. "C" advanced in 17 armored personnel carriers, along with the mess truck, supply and accompanying vehicles. Also attached was an armored tank company.

The local guardsmen led the way through the first course, a combined arms training exercise, including a maneuver with all live fire. Co. "C" led an attack on an objective being bombarded by artillery including 42 mortars, 81 mm mortars, 160 recoilless rifles, and several other artillery pieces. The company also supplied fire power with M60 machine guns, 90 mm rifle, M1 rifles and M79 grenade launchers. The combined arms range impressed not only the Stroudsburg soldiers but also Army advisers and Army evaluators.

First Army Commander Lt. Gen. Jonathan O. Seaman was among dignitaries in the field observing the Keystone Division in action. Also 28th Div. Commander Brig. Gen. Nicholas P. Kafkalas was on the scene observing.

Tuesday and Wednesday included mechanized rifle company in defensive and delay operations, combat range, technique of fire and crew drill for the anti-tank sections, and 81mm mortar sections, and on-the-job training for others.

Thursday morning started the field training exercise of the Mechanized Infantry Battalion which includes East Stroudsburg's Co. "C." The tactical problem ran from Thursday morning through Friday when the battalion moved back to its barracks.

The annual Governor's Day Review slated for Saturday noon was postponed due to inclement weather. However the weather didn't stop inspection time Saturday after most of the company spent long hours after the five-days in the field cleaning up their gear and weapons. Late Saturday afternoon brought some relief as a percentage of the company were awarded with overnight passes.

This week Monday and Tuesday was spent on qualification firing.

Company "C" is expected to arrive home at about noon today.

Area boy scouts on way to outing at Philmont

CIMARRON, N.M. — Boy Scouts from the Pocono District have arrived here this week to start a 10-day expedition at Philmont Scout Ranch.

Seven scouts from the district with scout leader, Clair Wallingford, started the week long cross country trip by bus last Saturday and are among the 39 scouts and three leaders from the Delaware Valley Area Council making the trip.

The boys have sent word of their first four days across the country through West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Kansas and Colorado. Here is their account:

"Two stops were made on the Pennsylvania Turnpike after leaving Phillipsburg, N.J. by bus, where we discovered that the parents of one of the scouts was following us. Dr. and Mrs. Abbruzzese were making the trip to Pittsburgh and decided to join us on our stops.

Continuing west, stops were made in West Virginia with an overnight stay at Lacking Council Scout Camp in Newark, Ohio. Went to bed fighting mosquitoes and the thoughts of getting up at 4 a.m.

On our way we were forced to get out of the bus to cross a weak bridge then continued west to the Indianapolis Race Track. There were no races so we visited the museum.

Next stop was Granite City Army Base, Ill. No barracks or tents available so camped in the picnic area near the Mississippi River where we spent one of the worst nights, fighting mosquitoes by the millions.

Crossed the Mississippi into Missouri and also crossed the Missouri River several times stopping in Concordia, Mo.

Driver hurt in one car accident

CANADENSIS — A Mountainhome resort owner was injured early Friday morning when the station wagon which he was driving slammed into a tree on the edge of the Canadensis hill road section of Rt. 390.

George Brown, owner and operator of Mountainhome Inn, Mountainhome, was pulled out from behind the wheel and through the windshield of the station wagon by Barrett Twp. police.

Police said the station wagon was going north on Rt. 390 when Brown apparently lost control of the vehicle, crossed into the southbound lane and crashed into the tree.

The road was slippery and driving hazardous according to police who said at the time of the accident, 12:05 a.m., that the "rain was really coming down."

Police reported the car a total loss. Brown was taken to a local doctor who treated him for a cut lip.

The Barrett Volunteer Ambulance drove Brown to General Hospital.

Cresco station once beehive of activity in rail heyday

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third and final article in a series on the Erie-Lackawanna's Cresco Station.

By PETE GRADY
Pocono Record Reporter

EAST STROUBURG — "The Lackawanna Railroad had the first train in America with an electric sign 'The Lackawanna Limited' on the rear of its observation car," retired Cresco station agent Nevin Hummel said in a tribute to the D.L. and W's heyday.

And that's where railroad officials could watch the world go by, out on the observation platform looking back at the narrowing rails. Always looking back?

The answer is found in a story told from different points of view in the transportation industry when bus and plane began making serious inroads on the iron horse.

Railroad officials rode in the observation car and viewed the past while airline and bus executives rode up front and saw the future.

But the middle and late thirties and early forties, especially the war years, still belonged to the railroads.

Tremendous rain

A memo from the D.L. & W. passenger traffic department went out to E. B. Moffatt, the railroad's general superintendent, Scranton office on May 31, 1934.

The Lackawanna had arranged a special train for a Federal Reserve City Banker's Party. The train boasted the latest rolling stock, seven sleepers, two dining cars and a lounge car for 88 bank presidents and the millionaire Andrew Mellon. It was routed ceremoniously from Pittsburgh to Cresco where the men dined for a convention at Skytop Lodge.

Later, during the war years, Hummel arranged a special train for just four passengers from New York to Cresco. The train consisted of engine, baggage, coach and buffet lounge. The four men were the famous Johnny Armbruster Quartet, which had a singing engagement at Buck Hill Falls. The quartet had missed a regularly scheduled train and the railroad decided to make up a special train so the singers could keep their commitment.

Cresco's biggest day for passenger service was one New Year's. Hummel can't remember which year, but on that day more than 1,000 passengers left Cresco for New York.

In 1946 Hummel received an amusing but prophetic letter from the editor of Sunday School publishing house in Canada.

Bell's Bridge washed away in 1955 flood

In the letter were two dollars—to cover the shortage on the editor's ticket to Cresco.

After pointing out his enjoyable stay at Buck Hill Falls, the editor lashed into railroad bureaucracy.

He complained about forms, schedules and calculations in making up a railroad ticket. "Selling tickets could be as simple as sales in the five and ten," he said. "Bartenders have no such arbitrary handicaps to service."

"The rhododendrons, however, compensate for head office stupidity, insensibility and bureaucratic mentality," he concluded.

"Black Thursday" August 18, 1955. Intermittent rain all day long in the Poconos. The ground couldn't hold any more water, it had only one way to go, the way of the streams. The streams formed a Hydra headed monster and with renewed vigor from the female demon Diane, the hurricane, the water uprooted lives and property.

It lifted up freight cars as casually as someone grabbing a matchbox. Ties and tracks looked like spaghetti on a plate. Bridges fell, landslides blocked tracks and two trains with a total of 324 passengers were stranded at Tobyhanna and Devil's Hole above Cresco.

Remain in trains

The passengers remained on the trains overnight and were removed by buses and Army helicopters in the morning. The passengers on eastbound train number 44 were taken to hotels at Mount Pocono and then by bus to Scranton. Some of the passengers on westbound number five were removed by Army buses from the Tobyhanna Signal Depot and others by Army helicopters.

On Thursday at about 7:30 p.m. Hummel took his wife to Dr. Harold Tattersall in Mountainhome. He had heard on WVPO that the roads were impassible in the valley area. He tried to get to the Cresco station to call railroad officials in Scranton but the Mountainhome bridge was washed out.

He went to Buck Hill and finally got a line through to Scranton. He got to the station in the early morning. Some of the passengers from one of the stranded trains were being fed at Carl's Sandwich Shop opposite the station.

The railroad restored full passenger and freight service within the month, repairing more than 60 miles of track and 105 major locations of washouts, slides and bridge damage. Bell's Bridge in Minisink Hills, completely washed away.

But what the railroad could not repair was the eventual loss in train passenger service.

The once famous names and numbers of trains reads like a litany of the dead.

The Whitelight Limited. The Lackawanna Limited. The Phoebe Snow. The Pocono Express. The Businessmen's Special. All gone the way of high overhead—but not forgotten.

Today there's The Owl and The Lake Cities westbound and the New York Mail and The Lake Cities eastbound.

And oh yes, one more item...in small print just below the schedules of The Owl and the New York Mail.

"The discontinuance of this train is the subject of a pending proceeding before the Interstate Commerce Commission. Consult ticket agent prior to date of travel."

Study set for budget of TIRAC

STROUBSBURG — A proposed $130,000 budget for 1969, which is about $50,000 less than the 1968 budget, will be presented to the Ticks Island Regional Advisory Council's executive committee and assembly meetings today.

The TIRAC assembly will meet 2 p.m. Saturday in the Penn-Stroud Hotel while the executive committee meets earlier in the day in the TIRAC offices.

The current 1968 budget is $184,314 while the 1967 budget was $45,000. Frank Dressler, executive director of TIRAC, said Thursday night that the proposed budget is less due to a smaller federal grant from the Department Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Dressler added, however, that the budget may increase if TIRAC receives additional funds from HUD sometime during the year. The proposed budget will only be under discussion Saturday. It will be adopted during the annual meeting which will be held sometime this November.

Four resolutions are also scheduled for adoption at Saturday's session. The executive committee is expected to release the resolutions to the floor of the assembly for official action.

One resolution calls for a five per cent across the board increase in salaries for the five TIRAC staff members. This does not include any increase in Dressler's salary.

The other three resolutions are:

This is a standard resolution required by HUD before TIRAC can receive the second 701 planning grant funds.

Contract renewal with Candeb, Pleissig and Associates for the second year's solid waste study for the Ticks Island region.

The resolution provides for an amendment to the previous resolution entering into contract with HUD.

The executive committee is also expected to set a time and place for the annual meeting. Dressler will also make his regular report to the committee Saturday.

Over 300 enjoy opening of Mid-Atlantic concerts

MOUNTAINHOME — Summer music made its debut in the Poconos Friday night.

It came on a small wooden stage in a plain rustic pavilion on a cold summer evening, but it nevertheless has arrived.

The scene was the opening of the Pocono Music Festival of the Mid-Atlantic Music and Arts Center. The performers were the Curtis String Quartet. The audience was overwhelmed.

Onawa Lodge is just as beautiful as ever. And even though the cold forced the audience of about 300 indoors, it did not chill their enthusiasm.

In fact, the audience was about the only part of the performance who showed any opening night jitters. The performers were far too seasoned for that. Their perfect union brought the comment "flawless" from one youthful female admirer.

It was impressive simply to watch the expressions on the faces of the men. Their swaying bodies, half-closed eyes, and quickly moving fingers demonstrated how deeply they felt what they were playing.

And the audience also was as deeply moved by the performance. It was the sort of audience that conveyed their feelings not by tapping their feet or even nodding their heads, but by small, quiet smiles at parts particularly impressive to them.

It was largely a youthful audience too—young musicians in the Poconos to attend the six-week sessions at Onawa Lodge.

Everyone attending seemed relaxed, friendly, and familiar.

The Curtis String Quartet includes Jascha Brodsky and Geoffrey Michaels on violin, Max Aramoff on viola, and Orlando Cole on cello. David Cole collaborated on cello in C, Opus 183 by Franz Schubert.

The Quartet also played Quartet in G minor, Opus 74, No. 3 (The Horseman) by Joseph Haydn and The Prayer of the Bullfighter by Joaquin Turina.

The audience responded with over five minutes of uninterrupted applause at the end of the program.

One was treated to no speeches, no introductions Friday night. Simply fine, well played classical music.

Thomas R. Joyce

Joyce elected state head of treasurers

HARRISBURG — Monroe County Treasurer Thomas R. Joyce Friday was elected President of Pennsylvania State Treasurers' Assn. at its convention in Harrisburg.

Joyce is the first treasurer from Monroe County to be elected to this high office.

He was also cited by the association for his work in legislation. Joyce was co-chairman, and re-elected to the post again.

New date set for Gap meeting

DELAWARE WATER GAP — A meeting of the Delaware Water Gap Chamber of Commerce scheduled for Friday night has been postponed until next Friday, 8 p.m., at Louise's Hotel-Brau, in the Water Gap.

Chamber vice president Art Lehr postponed the session Friday night due to lack of attendance.

High speed hit-run chase ends with swim in river

MINISINK HILLS — State Trooper Thomas Brennan late Thursday night in one respect did and in another did not have the luck of the Irish.

Trooper Brennan was investigating one accident in Minisink Hill when a station wagon came along and became involved in a hit-run incident.

Brennan followed the station wagon, chased it until it crashed into a tree in New Jersey and then entered the Delaware River to pull the driver from the water.

Brennan was investigating a one-car accident near Willow Dell on Rt. 209, when a station wagon driven by Isaac Culver Jr., 36, of 3350 N. 15th St., Philadelphia, skidded out of control and into a car driven by James Joseph Jr., 41, of East Stroudsburg R.D. 2.

Joseph, coming upon the scene of the first accident, slowed his vehicle to almost a stop.

The station wagon driven by Culver, and owned by Pocono Highlands Camp, Marshall's Creek, slid off the left side of the highway, struck the guard rails and then crossed the highway striking the Joseph car.

After getting the station wagon under control, Culver continued on with Brennan in pursuit.

When Brennan saw the station wagon enter Interstate Rt. 80 he radioed for aid. State Police at Blairstown, N.J., and Delaware River Toll Bridge Commission police were alerted.

High speed

Culver drove his car at speeds up to 80 miles an hour and failed to stop when signaled by Brennan.

Culver attempted to run Brennan off the highway while the red flashing light and the siren on the police car were in operation.

The station wagon crossed the toll bridge at Delaware Water Gap without stopping.

Brennan's signal to turn into the Kittatinny Bench Road was

Impersonators of police rob airman

MILFORD — A 19-year-old airman stationed at Stewart Air Force Base in Newburg, N.Y., on his way to his home in Swoyersville, Friday night was held up and robbed by two men dressed as Pennsylvania State Police.

Richard Mizenko told State Police at Milford that he was about five miles east of Milford on Rt. 6 when a green and white car with State Police decals, its siren and red light flashing, signaled him to stop.

Mizenko said the men came to him and told him to follow them. They drove back the Twin Lakes Road, stopped, got out of the car and walked toward him.

One man pulled his pistol from the holster and demanded his money. Mizenko gave the man approximately $150. The men took his keys, told him to get back in the car and they drove off. They threw his keys to the highway and he retrieved them and came to the barracks to report the incident.

Road blocks were thrown up in Pike and Monroe counties immediately.

ignored by Culver, the station wagon struck a sign, plunged down an embankment, and crashed head-on into a tree.

Culver left the car and headed for the water in what is believed to have been an effort to swim the river to elude capture.

Police from both states went to the river to look for the driver and then Brennan saw Culver floating in the river. He pulled him from the water and placed under arrest.

Culver was injured and taken to the General Hospital of Monroe County where he was treated and released and taken to the Monroe County Jail.

In Culver's vehicle were five passengers, they too were taken to the hospital where they were treated and released.

The passengers were: Ken Jackson, 40, ankle and chin injuries; Aaron Blue, 16, leg and knee injuries; Anthony Robinson, 15, sprained ankle, and Ewell Still, 15, whiplash of the neck. All are from Philadelphia.

Friday morning Culver was taken before Smithfield Twp. Justice of the Peace Thomas Flynn where he was charged with five violations. They are: operating while under suspension, hit and run, reckless driving, failing to stop on signal of an officer, and speeding.

Culver could not post $800 bail on the first two charges nor could he come up with $50 more to cover the fines and costs for the other three charges. He was committed to jail.

He is bound over to court action on the operating under suspension and hit and run charges.

Douglas Danfelt

Festival Band under baton of Danfelt

MOUNTAINHOME — An East Stroudsburg State College music professor will conduct the first Festival Band of the Mid-Atlantic Music and Arts Center at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Numerous students from East Stroudsburg High School Band will also play in Sunday's first band and chorus concert.

Dr. Douglas Danfelt, professor of Music at ESSC, who received his bachelor's and doctor's degrees at the Eastman School of Music at the University of Rochester, N.Y., will direct the Festival Band.

Local students from the East Stroudsburg Band, who will play in Sunday's concert under the tent at Onawa Lodge, are: Clayton Bush, bass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Bush of 166 N. Cortland St., East Stroudsburg; Barbara Jo Lantz, bassoon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack H. Lantz of 233 E. Brown St., East Stroudsburg; Dawn Merring, clarinet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. ## 12 Water Gap homes without water service

DELAWARE WATER GAP — An estimated 12 homes including the Mountain House, a tourist hotel, in Delaware Water Gap were without water service late Friday afternoon and during the early hours of Friday night.

According to council president Steven Matos the trouble was in the Mountain Road area where a pump house controls water flow.

He said that the trouble was obviously centered in the pump house and that water engineer William Heitler had been dispatched to the scene in an attempt to correct the situation first reported about 5 p.m.

Matos said he felt the trouble could be partially blamed on the excessive amount of water in the ground from the week's heavy rainfall but added that the area has been a trouble spot before regarding water service.

'Cash basis' only at office of recorder

STROUBSBURG — Monroe County Register and Recorder Carl Yost has announced that as of July 15 the recorder's office will operate on a "cash basis."

In a communication to row offices and attorneys, Yost said that growing charge accounts have led to the staff spending a disproportionate amount of time on extra book work.

He added that an increasing workload, as well as thousands of dollars constantly on the books has made the action necessary.

According to Yost the move is in order as he noted that most branches of county government have been on a cash basis for a long period of time.

The recorder added that this policy will pertain to all phases of the office.

EDWIN B. HUGHES—Among some of magazines

Hughes, Spragle retire with almost 100 years

EAST STROUBSBURG — About 60 employees of Hughes Printing Co. crowded into a small room in the plant Friday to honor the firm's retiring president and a retiring fellow worker.

President Edwin Hughes and compositor Richard Spragle were presented with gold watches by Al Kassner, Chapel chairman at Hughes. Between Hughes and Spragle, there is a total of nearly 100 years of service to the firm.

Spragle is retiring after 45 years and Hughes after nearly 50. The atmosphere in the room was a little nostalgic as they expected the awards. In a short speech, Hughes spoke about American Can Company's plan to change Hughes Printing to solely a letterpress operation.

"I've heard you're discouraged and disgusted," Hughes said. "About the change back to letterpress. We're disgusted too, but we're not discouraged."

Richard Spragle

"With your push and goad will and hard work, by keeping your shoulders to the wheel, this can be a successful plant. There's a lot of pride here. Only with your help can it continue."

Riessen also falls by wayside

Gonzalez ousted from Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Time caught up with old pro Pancho Gonzalez Friday and the durable 40-year-old star from Los Angeles, Calif., was ousted from the Wimbledon tennis championships by Russian Alex Metreveli.

The unseeded Russian, fusing at himself for early errors, got his game going and ran Gonzalez ragged in registering a 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 7-5 third round upset over the eighth seeded American.

Marly Riessen of Evanston, Ill., also fell by the wayside when he became the third American to be beaten by top-seeded Rod Laver of Australia, losing 6-4, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Two other U.S. amateur stars, however, were victorious. Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., knocked out the Russian El Shafel of Egypt 6-1, 6-2, 9-7, and Clark Graebner of New York defeated Jan Ulrich of Denmark in a dull match, 6-2, 6-0, 6-4.

The sun came out for the first time since the tournament began last Monday, but officials said all-night rains had left the courts in a shambles and they now were 200 matches behind. Normally a two-week event, Wimbledon this year may be extended into a third week.

Officials, trying to finish on time July 6, broke a 91-year-old tradition by advancing starting time, beginning Saturday, one hour to 1 p.m. local time.

Metreveli, in becoming the first Russian to make Wimbledon's last 16, did not register the only upset of the day. Australian-born Bob Hewitt, now playing on the South African Davis Cup team, stunned two-time champion Lew Hoad of Australia, 6-3, 9-11, 1-6, 6-3, 6-3. Hoad came out of retirement, forced on him by a back ailment, to compete in the first open Wimbledon.

Also making the final 16 was another two-time champion, Roy Emerson of Australia, who whipped former U.S. Davis Cupper and former Wimbledon champ Alex Olmedo of Peru 7-5, 6-1, 6-1.

Once Metreveli got his game in gear, he proved too much for Gonzalez, who is 16 years his senior. Pancho, who has won most major tennis tournaments except the Wimbledon, showed the strain early and appeared to be conserving his energy.

Metreveli, on the other hand, was forever dashing about the court trying for half chances and matching Gonzalez shot for shot after the first set.

"At the start I was slightly worried about the great man's reputation," Metreveli said. "But when I found he could also make mistakes, I settled down. Once I felt he was tiring, I decided to press and everything came off."

The turning point came in the first game of the second set. Metreveli, who was broken in the ninth game of the first set, had had difficulty holding service. But that was that last time he had to struggle. He started to bang home aces and completely eliminated his volleying errors.

The popular Russian broke Gonzalez on errors in the 10th game to make it set-all, then broke him again in the eighth game of the third set to go ahead. Pancho, looking very tired by the fourth set, was broken in the fifth game. Metreveli hitting a tremendous pass down the line. A momentary siege of nervousness showed Metreveli in the 10th game when he was serving for the match and dropped his delivery.

But he hit back immediately. Gonzalez making two volleying errors after fighting back from 15-40 to deuce. Second time around, Metreveli wrapped it up on his first match point with an unreturnable serve.

Then took the second set of Laver to tie the match at 1-1 when the red-haired Australian began making errors. Riessen continued the fight until the 12th game in the third set when Laver broke him.

Bruck opened the game with his fifth homer while in the fifth Curt Flood doubled ahead of Cepeda's 11th homer and Bob Tolan singled in front of Shannon's 10th homer. The Cards got another run off starter Ferguson Jenkins on Flood's first inning single, a stolen base, and Tolan's single.

The other Card runs came on a walk, a single and Flood's sacrifice fly in the sixth and Tim McCarver's two-run single in the eighth.

Jenkins allowed nine hits in five innings, while taking his ninth loss.

Briles allowed a run in the first on three singles and another in the fourth before being knocked out in the sixth when newly acquired Willie Smith doubled and Randy Hundley and Adolfo Phillips hit back-to-back homers.

Granger faced only 10 men in his three innings of relief.

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Bob Hope's now eligible for social security. Dane Clark's acting career has paused somewhat but not his income: says he bought Occidental Oil at three and now it's 40 after its Big Split.

Prettiest fine-footie in town: the lovely outdoor Italian gardens of Barbetta's W. 46th St. spot; one of the most beautiful restaurants anywhere, it's by far the loveliest Italian restaurant in New York City.

Little Melissa Merendino trying to feed her toy bunny pasta at the Tiberio is the daughter of TV's Betsy Palmer and her doctor husband Vincent.

Sinatra's record label (Reprise) thought it had Tony Bennett signed up but Columbia Records got Tony with a high-fee long-term bundle spread over many years.

First Negro show-horse trainer to crack the old snob-circuit competition is 19-year-old Marvin Perry of Westchester; Mrs. Theresa Jackson of Stamford, Conn., hired him to train three show-jumpers.

Marcel Cerdan Jr., son of the French prizefighter killed in a plane en route to America, is a middleweight with an undefeated record who said his father came to him in a dream and asked junior to "win back my middleweight championship"; his lucky talisman: his great-fighting father's trunks worn the night he took the crown from Tony Zale.

Handsome six-foot bartender at Miss Lacey's looks like an actor or a handsome athlete but he's neither: he's Dale Land, former assistant pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church on Lexington Ave. who still preaches in Lutheran pulpits while post-graduating at the New York Theological Seminary; gets in a little noble advice to bar customers between Sabbaths.

That grand old acting veteran Kathy Crosby will lecture at the University of Texas drama department this summer... Harry Belafonte will play a Negro named Levine in his next movie with Edward G. Robinson; Harry should act and be well.

Hedy Lamarr's deciding which play she'll take to the summer circuit this year. Just when comic Rodney Dangerfield's hit his first big television and cafe success, his wife fell ill.

Benny Goodman's smile was ear-to-ear at Shepherd's in the Drake Hotel, barking to the rock-versions by "The Teachers' of his "One O'Clock Jump". George Frazier has a nifty Esquire mag piece about the Goodman band of the 30s, but didn't the NBC radio "Saturday Night Dance Party" start in mid-evening, not 11 p.m.? The other two bands were Ken Murray (actually a fine studio musician named Murray Kellner in a name-band try) and Xavier Cugat, who brought Latin rhythms to the mass U.S. public for the first big time. The hot popularity of those Nehru-minded Mao jackets isn't duplicated in Tokyo (headline for Variety: Nips Nix Nehru Necks).

Lola Albright "retired" a couple of years ago and returned for two MGM flicks (The Impossible Years, Where Were You When the Lights Went Out) and now she's retired again, no doubt. Sure sign of popularity: the "Hello Dolly!" souvenir book peddled by the troupe starring Dorothy Lamour already has out-sold all except for Carol Channing, who starred four years to less than one for Dottie. Comic Mickey Deems is directing the Sid Caesar-Ingene Coca comeback at the Westbury Music Fair.

Adoption announcement

Dear Ann Landers: If I am wrong about this please tell me and I will rethink the whole matter.

Recently I read the following item in the newspaper: "Mr. and Mrs. XYZ of P.Q. Road announce, with pleasure, the adoption of a daughter, JKL, six weeks old. The XYZ's have a son, LMN, who is six."

It seems to me the adoption of a child is such a deeply personal thing that advertising it in the newspapers is in the worst possible taste. Why would anyone do it? Will you comment?

NO CITY PLEASE

Dear No City: It is not unusual for parents to announce the adoption of a child, and I do not agree that it is "in the worst possible taste."

The proud parents want the world to know of the addition to the family and what better way than to make an announcement in the local newspaper?

of epileptic seizures. I thought, "Oh, God, this can't be happening to me!"

When I was released from the hospital I was so terrified of having a seizure in public that my husband had to virtually drag me out of the house. Then I got some sense. I wrote to the Epilepsy Foundation in Washington, D.C. and read up on my illness. My ignorance was shocking. I had believed that anyone who had seizures was retarded. Even more important, I learned that most seizures can be controlled with drugs and it was senseless to stay home in anticipation of seizures that may never occur.

I don't discuss my illness as social chitchat, but if there's a reason to mention that I am an epileptic I do so now without shame or embarrassment. If you think my letter will give courage to others please print it.

SUNNY SIDE UP

Dear Sunny: I do and I will. The testimony of one who has climbed the mountain and seen the promised land is infinitely more effective than advice. And now I'd like to add a word: The address of the Epilepsy Foundation of America is 1419 H. Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently my husband and I moved into our new home. A former neighbor came to call on us last night.

As we were showing her around the guest asked, "How much did this house cost?" I felt the question was personal and replied, "I'd rather not say." Instead of letting the matter drop, she became angry and shouted, "Why not? Are you ashamed of it?" This really floored me but I decided not to be intimidated. I said, "Why would you ask such a question?" She answered, "Well, if you're so sensitive, skip it."

The rest of the evening was strained and I was glad to see her go. After she had left, my husband said I should have told her the price of the house and avoided the hard feelings. I'm sure this incident will put a serious dent in our relationship. Was I wrong?

THE CLAM

Dear Clam: No! Merely because the woman had the nerve to ask a tasteless question did not entitle her to an answer. If you've lost her friendship because you refused to knuckle under, you've lost nothing of value.

Willie Davis is promising one more season with his Green Bay grid team: he's already completed work for his masters at the University of Chicago... Joe King's Rathskeller (where college kids congregate) now is a "political cabaret" with anyone welcome to get up and perform; only entertainingly, is the one rule... Have a rumor: the New York jet airport so badly needed may be in Putnam County with a direct shuttle train hooked into the Manhattan subway system.

"The Name of the Game" at the Broadhurst Theatre surprised most first nighters by arriving as a strangely entertaining "small" play... Frank D. Gilroy's slightly bitter little comedy aimed at Broadway last year and closed on the road; whereupon Barry Nelson took over the direction, rounded out its trio-cast with Tammy Grimes and Leo Genn and author Gilroy started all over.

Its slender story concerns a Las Vegas chorus girl with an aging married lover (Leo Genn) who gets tangled sexually if unromantically with a musician of passable talents while she waits for her rich lover to unload a wife and family and marry her... When he does finally, chorus kid discovers her own secret — she loves the pianist with the slight touch of gambling degeneracy; and that's the whole plot, flimsy but able to sustain a great many desperate little wiseguys which hide the rudderless emptiness of both kids' lives; and somehow it hangs together, not with the grandeur that once was drama nor even the rich jokes of Neil Simon in "Plaza Suite"; but still with a sense of frequent integrity and understanding of the shallow, sordid dejectedness of the city built on sand and greed.

Drinking may be "in" to the kids you run with—but it can put you "out" for keeps. You can cool it and stay popular. Read "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Remember when the iceman 'cameth'?

Those were the days when the milk turned sour if the iceman came late. When ice cream wouldn't keep. And food could spoil easily. But what could you do? Buy a new refrigerator? There were no refrigerators.

Today, the problem's which refrigerator. The one that defrosts itself? Or the one with the larger freezer compartment?

There are people who think the problem of choosing is the problem. The choice is too big. Too difficult. Too much competition only confuses you. So, in the name of "Consumer Protection" they want to limit your choice.

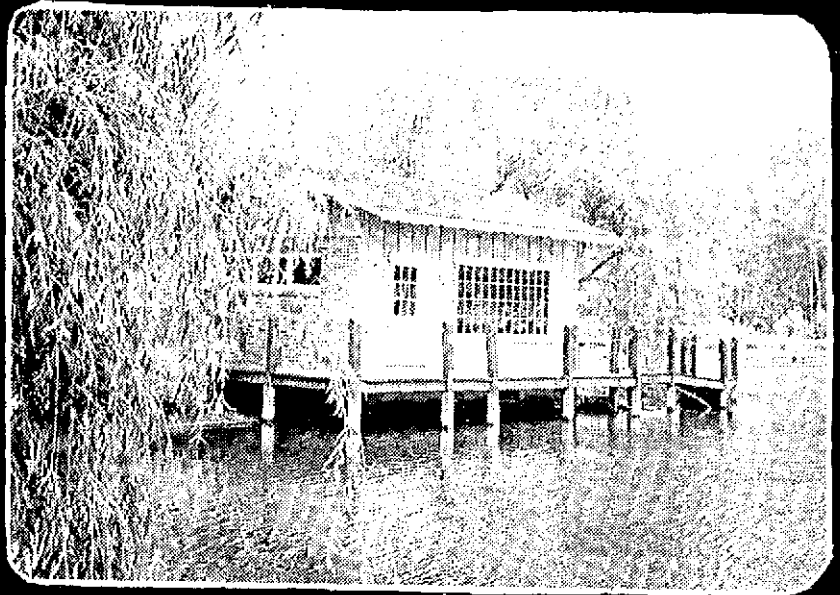

Our economy was built on free competition. That's why our free choice keeps getting bigger and better. And if somebody introduces tomorrow's refrigerator today, wouldn't you want to be able to buy it?

Be choosy.
You've got a right.

Entrance to Moon Valley

Wild West town

Step into the whale's mouth

Fun for children of all ages

MILFORD — Youngsters — and adults alike — have a habit of staying for hours when they walk through the entrance of Richard Canouse's Moon Valley in Milford.

The youngster's imaginations run wild and the adults become young again in this unique storybook-zoo. Complete with its typical old western and "Miners Bank of Tombstone," the gruesome "Boot Hill," youngsters and adults can wander amongst the grounds and see 300 animals featured in children's storybooks.

One of the more unique attractions is a large whale in whose belly Pinocchio lived. Tourists can step into the whale's gaping mouth and walk into the belly where, there's a little bench.

Boot Hill

Falls top attraction in Bushkill

BUSHKILL — Bushkill Falls is known as "The Niagara of Pennsylvania" and is a popular visitors' attraction because of its distinctive natural beauty and grandeur.

Presently, like all local watersheds saturated by heavy spring rains, Bushkill Falls' roaring waters have reached peak volume and provide a spectacle for those who wish to enjoy a sight where Nature is unleashing some of its pent up forces.

The main falls is only a two minute walk from the parking area and when standing on an observation platform the visitor can expect to receive a fine spray of mist created by the tremendous impact of water crashing on the floor of the main falls below.

The forest is dense and the mountain paths are lined with laurel and rhododendron as one proceeds to view the key points of the falls, known as Thunder George, Laurel Glen, Upper Canyon, Bridal Veil Falls.

Family lineage

Bushkill Falls has had a family lineage dating way back, but it was only in 1906 when Charles E. Peters decided to turn the falls into a business venture, with an admission charge of 10 cents, which was met with laugh and ridicule from his surrounding friends.

Mrs. Roland Hoot, widow of Peters in 1949, and who since has remarried, recounts the story of her former husband's early ventures in turning the Falls into a tourist attraction.

She, prior to marriage, was one of his first customers, and being a schoolteacher in Bushkill, brought down her class on Washington's Birthday to see the falls. "At that time, it was a dangerous thing to do," remarked Mrs. Hoot, meaning that in those days, there were no foot trails, railings, bridges, or anything. One was left to one's own devices in an area where nature's savagery had taken on the additional hazards of ice and snow at the time she visited with the children.

Meanwhile, millions of people are reported to have viewed the falls, confirming Peters' conviction that it was a worthwhile business enterprise, with great potential, developing the falls into a tourist attraction.

Automobiles became popularized in the 1880s which had considerable impact on the future numbers of potential visitors who had heard about the Falls in one way or another.

Like all bodies of water, the falls reach their lowest level normally in late summer, but this does not detract from their beauty which changes and becomes individualized at various seasons of the year. Many people prefer to see them when the water level is at its lowest, as well as highest, for they assume a variety of character.

The grounds of Bushkill Falls are complete with picnic tables and outdoor fireplaces throughout the many acres.

Twin Lakes is also part of the overall attraction where boating can be enjoyed. Recreational facilities include playgrounds for children.

Water falls 175 feet of beauty

DINGMANS FERRY — Overlooking the site of the proposed Tocks Island Lake and the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area is Raymondskill Falls, located one half mile off Route 209, midway between Dingmans Ferry and Milford.

The terrain surrounding one of the Poconos' most scenic tourist attractions is very rugged and challenges the trail climber if he is to enjoy the full spectrum of beauty to be enjoyed at various lookout points within the 175-foot drop encompassed by the falls.

It is not uncommon, when viewing at the right point, to enjoy a beautiful rainbow created by the upward spray caused by the tremendous onrush of pounding waters to the depths below.

Nature can be cruel!

Nature can be cruel, as well as beautiful, and as one views the fury of the waters as they pound their way through the moss covered gorge, one can appreciate the great fight for natural survival going on. A fern being tossed every which way by the deluge of water is fighting for its life, and how many previous fern seedlings which tried to survive on the same spot and found it impossible to do so would be anybody's guess.

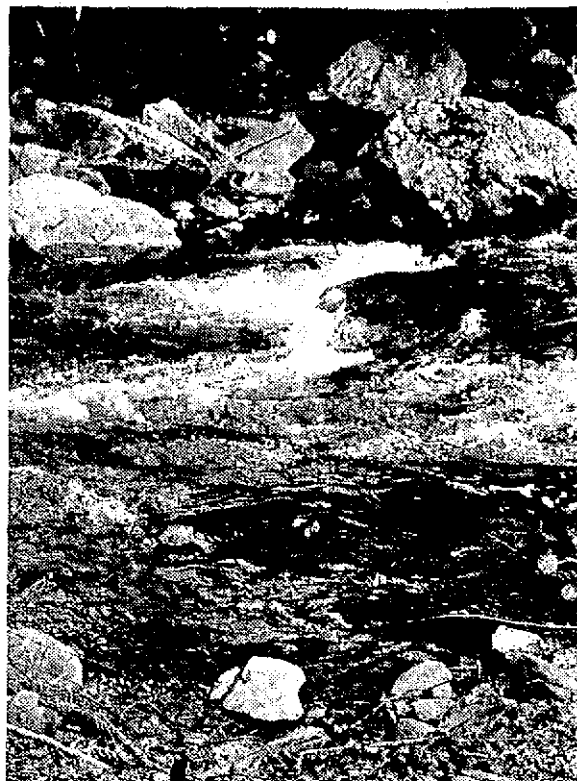

In their own way, the great waterfalls areas of the north are similar to the tropical rain forests in that the combination of the rich black soil from the woods, plus the continuing supply of moisture from the waters, create some of nature's most fertile conditions for plant life to grow, and there is an eternal jungle of life going on as each spore on the top of each dying lichen is fighting for a crumb of space to develop and send out its seeds, only to complete the cycle all over again.

The falls of Raymondskill are within relatively short range of its parking area and the approach is a downward one. Along the way, live animals are quartered, representing canadian deer, an Eskimo husky, mountain goat, sheep, and a braying burro.

Thereafter, the terrain assumes a steep pitch and if one's stamina permits, it is well worth the climb down and up the trail to enjoy the view of all five falls of Raymondskill.

Facilities include a large picnic area in a heavily wooded setting, a gift shop, and luncheonette.

The waters of Raymondskill are copious and the reverberation of their pounding on the rocks can be felt while standing on the trail.

Wayne County to hold Music Festival in July

HONESDALE — Pocono residents as well as visiting vacationers will want to attend the multivariied program of the July Music Festival being sponsored by the Wayne County Chamber of Commerce in Honesdale. Chairman of the Festival is A. E. Fasshauer.

The main purpose of the festival is to offer a wide variety of entertainment to the public, as well as to develop an appreciation of music. By stimulating public interest through the superb program being offered this year, it is hoped a fund can be established so as to make possible a continuing festival in Honesdale on an annual basis.

The night of July 9 will be given over to Folk Music. A country and western music night is planned for July 11. July 14 will feature a country mixed chorus concert. July 16 will be a very special night, featuring the Rittenhouse Brass Quartet.

Variety Night is the theme of the July 23rd program, which will be a sort of amateur night during which time prizes will be presented. The night of July 25 will feature the Maple City Band Concert, and on July 27 the festival will conclude with the Diamond Arca Barbershop Singers.

All events will be free of charge, with only a goodwill collection taken on the grounds. The exception is the night of July 16 featuring the Rittenhouse Brass Quartet, when an admission charge of one dollar will be asked. This is the only indoor event and will be held in the Stourbridge Junior and Senior High School. The other events will be outdoors at Stourbridge Lot on West Park St.

Additional information on any of the programs of the Festival can be obtained by calling the Honesdale Chamber of Commerce.

Beauty of Poconos inspired Auntie Em's art

POCONO PINES — Mrs. Walter Miller of Pocono Pines, known professionally as Auntie Em, recently returned from a successful showing of her work in the Stern Brothers Department Stores in Paramus and Paterson N.J. where she demonstrated the art of primitive oil painting each afternoon during Early American week.

Many of the world renowned artists of Bergen County came out to pay tribute to Auntie Em and to marvel at her ethereal technique.

Auntie Em chatted in friendly fashion as she deftly blended a rainbow of pastels into a magnificent Pocono sunset. Then while adding a sparkling mountain stream from which some white tailed deer were having a nightcap, she told her enthralled audience how the beauty of Pennsylvania's mountains inspired her to take up oil painting after retiring as a school teacher.

Curious audience

The plucky golden ager found the ladies of her audience even more curious about her beauty secrets than about her magical touch with oils. "You're not 75! That's a missprint, isn't it?" was the most frequently asked question. To which Auntie Em replied, "I ushered in Halloween in 1892, figure it out for yourself!"

When pressed she added proudly, "I still read without glasses and chew caramels with my own teeth." She failed to mention that she also survived a serious bout with cancer about 10 years ago.

A preview luncheon was served in Stern Brothers' restaurant where costumed waitresses served early American fare consisting of steamed clams, hog back with greens, corn fritters, roasted turkey, chestnut stuffing, whole cranberry sauce, corn-on-the-cob, broiled chickens and Indian pudding.

Auntie Em served her homemade dandelion wine to astonished guests who were anxious to know whether the guest of honor stamped the dandelion in the honored tradition of making grape wine. She assured them that wasn't part of the process.

Walter Miller, a retired carpenter, accompanied his wife, and was kept quite busy explaining how he makes the custom frames that compliment each picture. Walt's frames are mandatory for connoisseurs who are collecting Auntie Em's paintings as an investment.

Initial efforts

First efforts were sold to neighbors and friends for only a few dollars, but soon Auntie Em couldn't keep up with the demand and prices were advanced to $20 for 'a nice-sized

Dutch worried about tourists

THE HAGUE (UPI) — Dutch tourist circles fear that more foreign travelers are looking for the warmer south of Europe and beyond.

Latest statistics show foreigners spent a total of 4,639,000 nights in Holland in 1967, a drop of 3.7 per cent from 1966. Germans led in number of visitors with a total of 1,374,000, but this was 10.4 per cent less than in 1966.

picture. Then tourists visiting the area discovered the lovely reminiscences on canvas and bought all the pictures Auntie Em could produce. When they returned home with their treasures their friends quickly beat a path to the Poconos and invested in her art.

Over a period of a few years the paintings rapidly rose in value justifying their faith in Auntie Em's talent. Because of the encouragement she received from her neighbors when she began, Auntie Em still maintains prices throughout the Pocono area at about one-third of what her work is selling for in galleries in the cities.

Her work is on permanent exhibition in the Sportsman's Motel in Blakeslee and at Pocono Crest. She also likes to show her current work to visitors in her home in Pocono Pines where they are sometimes tempted to join her for a piece of homemade shortly pie or cinnamon buns.

Auntie Em combines her love of children and of teaching by giving painting lessons to local youngsters every week at the United Church of Christ in Pocono Pines. She also conducts adult classes at the Sportsman's Motel when time permits.

A New York City showing of Auntie Em's work is being planned for this summer. The lively septuagenarian said "I feel like Elizabeth Taylor, getting paid for something that's so much fun!"

STROUDSBURG — The vacation season which opened with the completion of school terms this month is expected to attract a record number of visitors to the public recreation areas which Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. has developed on lands surrounding its power plants at Lake Wallenpaupack in the Poconos and Lake Aldred in the Lower Susquehanna Valley.

Robert C. Zundel, PP & L's manager-real estate, said both year-round parks are better equipped than ever before to handle the heavy summer influx of picnickers, campers and boaters.

Recently, for example, the company established base radio stations at both lakes. In the past, field personnel assigned to company-owned vehicles and service boats were often out of direct contact with the main recreation office because of duties that took them to the far reaches of one of the huge recreation complexes.

Now, with instant two-way communication possible between the lake superintendent and staff, personnel can be summoned quickly from remote locations should an immediate need for their assistance develop. In this way, the PP & L official pointed out, the use of radios will result not only in improved supervision but also in public benefits in the form of better service.

Zundel emphasized that the equipment was installed primarily as an operating facility and intended to supplement rather than take the place of telephones connecting key points around the lake.

Another development, he said, is the hiring of additional personnel for the summer in a further step to improve operating and maintenance service. Six college students were added to the Lake Wallenpaupack staff and four were hired at Lake Aldred. They are in addition to the college students who conduct guided tours of the company's hydroelectric installations at the two locations.

Development of a dozen different recreation sites on Lake Aldred under a million dollar program started in 1966 is now more than two-thirds completed. The program is designed to provide accommodations for 230,000 visitors a year by 1980.

At Lake Wallenpaupack, one of a number of improvements is the installation of electrical outlets at the camping sites not previously served. The company maintains camping and picnicking accommodations at four lakeshore parks — Wilsonville, Ironwood Point, Caffrey and Ledgesdale — and provides picnic tables, fireplaces and boat-launching ramps for public use.

'PMI in the Sky' — Pocono's home of magic

CRESCO — Pocono Mountain Inn, known as "PMI in the Sky," is more than a year around operating resort whose atmosphere captures a bit of Swiss flavor, with rustic cottages, matching altitude and panoramic view.

It is a rendezvous for magic and the haunt of many notables of that world, including Czechoslovakia's Great Pavel, known as "Mr. Magic" himself, twice starring on the Ed Sullivan Show, and playing all the capitals of Europe.

Moreover, the owner of the Inn, Walt Fossa, is a magician himself, having come under compelling influences some five years ago and since adding a facet to his personality which may be the keynote to the successful upsurge in business the Inn is enjoying.

Not that Fossa practices hypnosis on his guests, though there is a similar consequent effect following the lively rapport on magic between owner and clientele, which develops strong compulsions on the part of guests to identify their return to the Poconos with a dependency on the Inn. This is known as good business, in plain terms.

Fossa, who is very much in the foreground with his guests at all times, carries the image of the democrat, the extravert, the plain man, the man readily accessible to all guests, the front man, and the back man both, of the establishment, and firmly believes, beyond gimmickery, that people who come to a Pocono vacation resort (as opposed to one night accommodation a la Hilton) are looking for one thing—happiness.

When asked to explain the implications, Fossa elucidated, "Happiness has to be a human experience. Sometimes big establishments think the key to happiness is a sunken bath tub for a newlywed, or a free mink collar for poochie. I don't. For guests, even the sophisticated ones, there is a necessary communication breakthrough, and once they are able to relate with their new environment, particularly with its most important element, people, they are happy and begin to live.

"Some say this is the job of a social director. This may be true, but I prefer to think this function is limited to social environment. In addition, I want to get in the act myself and see that guests get what they came for, and that has subtle implications.

"Basically I try to accomplish this through entertainment, on a person-to-person communication basis, and this is where my magic comes in. It's never foisted on anyone, but the effect of entertaining with magic wins them all over in due time."

When asked how he got

involved with magic, Fossa said, "Just through meeting someone who came here for a job as an entertainer. We swapped spoils, and I came out with one trick. The main thing was that I immediately saw the tremendous effects of audience communication with magic, and when oriented to resort entertainment, I thought it had great potential. "Meanwhile, since my five years of self-development with a captive audience rather than the inanimate mirror, I've gotten so hept that I'm under a spell myself. It's not the ability to make an object disappear, but the play on the mind of the viewer that's so fascinating."

"Incidentally," he added, "the higher the intellect, the easier to fool, and vice versa. Women are better subjects than men because their emotional response is more honest and direct. "I can tell when a school teacher is the subject, because he carries the cultural image of the know-all and under temporary entrapment feels guilty. The magician performer, however knows the responses of his subjects well enough, so that they are eventually turned back on him in a spirit of comedy, and the subject gets a good laugh as well as the next guy." The engineer, under the pressure of the magic act, always identifies himself with the objective scientific approach to it all, and tries not to get involved. And the toughest ones to fool, believe it or not, are kids.

When people come into Fossa's new Tyrolean Bar which he designed himself and helped construct this year, they come for two things, a drink and magic. Strangers come up and say, "I heard about magic at this place. Who does it?"

Fossa goes further than person-to-person on communication, when the moment of magic arrives during a typical time of enjoyment around the bar, he shuffles off with a group into the old bar, and teaches foolish are supplanted with the proper conception of magic as a legitimate deception.

"The art of magic is very old and has changed considerably in present times. The element of mystification formerly employed, suggests inferiority in present day conception, and has been replaced by amusement which provokes the element of humor."

Winona Five Falls — rich in Indian legend

BUSHKILL — Winona Five Falls is one of the Poconos' main scenic attractions which is reportedly visited by tens of thousands each year. It is located between Marshalls Creek and Bushkill on Route 209.

The falls themselves constitute a series of five distinct falls cascading from an overall height of 175 feet, each with its individual character and setting.

Its watershed, normally abundant, presently has been heightened to an all time high, producing a tumultuous roar due to the locally heavy rains.

According to the legend of Winona Five Falls, they were named in memory of the beautiful princess, Winona, who sacrificed her life by a death leap into the turbulent waters so as to bring to an end the war between her father's tribe and that of her beloved warrior.

Mementos and relics can be found even today on the surrounding grounds of the falls, attesting to the many Indian tribes roaming the area ages ago.

Great effort has been taken down through the years to retain the natural beauty of the entire Falls area so as to enshrine without embellishment their unique grandeur.

To those who plan to visit the falls, it is suggested that they provide themselves with appropriate footwear, as the foot trails and bridges are rugged. Nature has been abetted here and there to make passable some of the steeper inclines, otherwise the trail has been left unchanged.

Flat shoes with rubber heels and soles facilitate greatly the demands on the climber who wishes to enjoy the views of the falls from the very top to bottom lookout points.

Names of falls

The third falls, in ascending order, is called "Manitou," the fourth has been named "Lovers Retreat," and the fifth one is known as "Dancing Waters" where, due to the tremendous force of the voluminous waters through the Rocky gorge, is a momentary aftermath of calm, when the waters spin around and intermingle as they become prepared for the next on-rush over the rocky ledge into the Lovers Retreat area.

Winona's trails abound with mountain laurel which is at its peak at this time of the year, as well as rhododendron and dense pine.

A day's outing for the family or group can be enjoyed through the use of the free picnic and recreational facilities at Winona.

The grounds consist of 300 acres of delightful woodland picnic area, nestled along the banks of Saw Creek below the waterfalls. There are more than adequate picnic tables and fireplaces for all.

In the entrance building there is quartered a gift shop.

NBA star heads staff of new basketball camp

POCONO PINES — Dave Bing, the scoring king in the National Basketball Assn. this season, and Howie Landa, a former Little All American, will operate a basketball camp in the Pocono Mountains this year.

Bing and Landa purchased Trail Side Cottages, near Pocono Pines, and call the new venture, "Dave Bing's All-Pro Basketball Camp." The deal for Trail Side Cottages was consummated in the offices of Monroe Security and Trust Co. Stroudsburg.

The All-Pro Basketball Camp will offer seven sessions, the first getting underway July 7-13. The student-teacher operation will continue through August 24.

Guest teachers will include Bill Bradley, the former Princeton All-American and present New York Knickerbocker star; Sam Jones, the Boston Celtics' top scorer; and Billy Cunningham, the Philadelphia 76ers' most promising young player.

Bing, rookie of the year in the NBA, broke all scoring records at Syracuse University before coming to the Detroit Pistons.

Landa, an Eastern League all-pro for six years, is rated one of the top coaches in the business today. During his high school coaching career, Landa established an 82-win, 16-loss mark.

Horseback riding popular sport

High Chaparral riding high

MOUNT POCONO — Equestrian sport is in high gear at the new High Chaparral Ranch located three quarters of a mile north of here on Route 196 where routes 611 and 940 intersect.

While it only opened to the public as of June 1, it is already enjoying wide patronage from the public as well as nearby resorts who are taking advantage of its unusual features.

The atmosphere of the ranch is strictly western and is rapidly fulfilling a dream of its principal owner, Theodore Nakielny of New Jersey, who, when he first arrived in the Poconos, decided to impart the area with western ranch atmosphere. At the moment, the ranch has a total of 56 horses, consisting of regular quarter horses and western broke school hacks. The latter type is very maneageable under the rein and is relatively uncommon to the public.

Scenic rides

Campfires, cookouts, sun up rides, and scenic trail rides are some of the features of the ranch. The site of High Chaparral was chosen because of the great panoramic view it affords while "on the trail." The rider enjoys an unobstructed view of Delaware Water Gap and is constally surrounded by wild game. At this time of the year, natural beauty of the trail is further enhanced by the prolific mountain laurel now in bloom.

An outdoor arena now in use will be matched shortly with an indoor one, and future plans include a western hotel, bar, and restaurant. In near completion is a 100-foot barn to accommodate 12 box stalls for individual runs. There will also be a complex of four barns in the main building area with a housing capacity of 42 horses.

The most unique feature of all at the ranch is its package plan available to those who eventually want to own their own horses without initial outlay. Under the plan, one is given a horse free, with saddle and all equipment, then board feeds the animal per fee at the ranch. At the end of two years the horse becomes the sole property of the subscriber.

Around the clock

Another added feature of the ranch is that it operates around the clock, never closes, so that those who wish to ride after working hours can do so.

Pocono Ridge Camp nearby is currently sending 196 children to the ranch for riding two hours a week, on a continuing basis. Other resorts in the area have been sending their guests to the ranch as well.

The name of the ranch's manager is Clyde Story, with a colorful past of 35 years' experience with polo ponies, etc. He has done the training and breeding for some of the country's major quarter horse farms and has been a riding instructor for five years in leading camps in the state of New Hampshire. His experience includes as well as several years at major dude ranches in New York State. The ranch has special rates, such as camp rates, group rates, discount rates for families, etc., who ride frequently.

The principal owner of High Chaparral Ranch, Theodore Nakielny, has successfully maintained a bar and restaurant business in New Jersey, though his present preoccupation is to duplicate his establishment in the Poconos with a western atmosphere.

Busy time in Wayne County

HONESDALE — Wayne County, one of the four counties embracing the Pocono Mountains, will embark on an ambitious entertainment program for the thousands of tourists, vacationers and travelers who will visit Pennsylvania's number one holidayland this summer.

Starting in June and continuing through Sept. 1, stock car racing will be held every Saturday night at the Wayne County Fairgrounds.

During July the county's annual music festival will be high-lighted by folk singers.

41 state parks offer fun

HARRISBURG — Secretary of Forests and Waters, Maurice K. Goddard, announced that "in view of the fact that Gov. Raymond P. Shafer has proclaimed the week of June 24 to June 30, 1968, to be Pennsylvania Camping Week, the citizens of this commonwealth should be aware of what their state parks presently offer, and have planned, for the camping public."

"Presently there are 41 state parks that provide family camping facilities. These locations are all situated in areas of high natural or historic interest. The majority are managed and developed to permit family participation in outdoor recreational activity, such as swimming, boating, fishing, hiking, and hunting in specified seasons and areas. Nature education trails or programs are available at five of these parks. Summer theater, golf, and other favorite outdoor, leisuretime activities are found nearby in some locations."

"To date, there are 3,917 family campsites available at these operating State parks. Of this total, 1,135 sites, in six State parks, are now provided with modern sanitary facilities."

Special emphasis

"As part of its renovation and accelerated construction program, this Department's Bureau of State Parks has placed special emphasis on providing modern water and sanitary facilities, including flush toilets, central shower houses, and sanitary disposal systems for trailers."

"At this time, construction of 1,157 sites with supporting modern conveniences is underway, or will commence shortly, at Gifford Pinchot, Prince Gallitzin, and Pymatuning State Parks. Forty-one additional campsites are also under construction at Parker Dam State Park."

"We are presently designing 1,032 sites with modern water and sanitation at Greenwood Furnace, Promised Land, Laurel Hill, Elk, French Creek and Cook Forest State Parks."

"Assistance, through the Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund Act, permits expansion of the effort at Prince Gallitzin State Park. A request to the same source is presently pending for our proposed work at French Creek State Park."

"Funds have been requested in our 1967-1969 Capital Budget to design and construct an additional 100 campsites at Promised Land State Park."

Tent camping facilities are also available at 16 State parks

Game land facilities available to visitors

STROUDSBURG — Some of the many visitors who are pouring into the Poconos will want to center their vacations around the facilities of Pennsylvania's vast forest and game lands.

Within the county of Monroe, for example, the e is Tract No. 127, abound with complete wildlife known to the Keystone State. It is not unusual while driving one's car through the gamelands to stumble upon the uncommon wild turkey, wary in nature, but having a tendency to roam in numbers up to a dozen or more.

Within Tract No. 127 is also Brady's Lake which is over two miles long and is constantly being restocked, assuring big catch for the fishing public. Boating can be enjoyed as well on Brady's Lake. Since all facilities of the 22,000 acres comprising Tract No. 127 are

DINGMANS FALLS—175 feet high

SILVER THREAD FALLS—177-foot drop

Two waterfalls of beauty

DINGMANS FERRY — One of nature's unusual phenomena is Dingmans Falls and Silver Thread Falls, located one mile off Route 209 at Dingmans Ferry.

The falls have a majestic quality and are reportedly the two highest in the Pocono Mountains. They are situated on separate streams within short range of each other.

One of the features of Dingmans Falls is flat and climbing is required to view them. Silver Thread Falls is only a very short distance away from the entrance area and the ensuing trail which leads on to Dingmans Falls is flat and gravel paved.

Some of the Pocono's most beautiful forest land is found on the trail leading to Dingmans Falls. Recently, under the area's constant maintenance program, a pine tree was felled having an overall height of 140 feet.

Dingmans Falls, a 175-foot cascade of water tumbling over moss covered rocks and ending in a swirling pool affords a magnificent scene. The more curious and energetic visitor may wish to explore further and find the "Serpent's Tongue," a lively little waterfall busily finding its way to the Dingmans Falls.

There is also the "Pot Hole," a rock formation 14 feet deep and 14 feet wide, which has been created by the constant flow of water for centuries.

Silver Thread Falls, uniquely beautiful among famous waterfalls, is reportedly one of nature's most perfectly formed natural fissures. Due to the even volume of water flowing over the rocks for many centuries, nature has carved a completely straight natural repository for its crystal clear water to escape from the tremendous height above, creating an effect of true artistic symmetry and beauty amid the denseness of a virgin hemlock forest.

Major attraction

Dingmans Falls Park is scheduled to be one of the 10 major recreation attractions in the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area. The DWGNRA, which will encircle a 37 mile long lake, created by a dam at Tocks Island on the Delaware River, will be the first major national recreation area in the East.

The Dingmans Falls Park site is attractive and unspoiled.

During the spring and summer months the forest floor is a wild flower garden with rododendron blooming profusely in July. Mosses, lichens, ferns and hundreds of plant species make the spot a botanical paradise.

About 48 kinds of wild mammals alone have been identified within the locale. A total of 215 different birds have been recognized with approximately half of these nesting within the Falls grounds. The others are transient as the valley in which Dingmans Falls is situated is a natural migration flyway.

In the entrance building there is a souvenir and gift shop where gifts and mementos can be purchased. The grounds contain ample free picnicking facilities, as well as free parking. Modern rest rooms are an added facility, as well as an attractive snack bar.

Liquid welcome

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — Authorities at Jorge Chavez International Airport recently began to provide free drinks of pisco, a brandy which is the Peruvian national drink, to all arriving passengers.

Big names in show business present in Poconos

MOUNT POCONO — The glitter of Broadway, Hollywood and Las Vegas is shining over the Pocono Mountains these nights. Stars from stage, screen, radio and television are drawing capacity crowds to the night spots of Pennsylvania's number one playground.

Dick Shawn, the comedian who revived the Confederacy a few years back, wowed'em at Mt. Airy Lodge. Sam Levenson, the laugh fellow who parlayed a leaching career into a comedy act, packed 'em in at Tamiment, the place that embarked Danny Kaye, Sid Caesar and Imogene Coco on the starchy road.

The Poconos are going out for first class talent to draw the entertainment addict. For example, Tamiment has lined up Frank Gorshin July 3-7. He's the guy whose celebrity impressions have won him world acclaim.

Theodore Bikel, Frank Sinatra Jr. and the New Christy Minstrels are also scheduled for Tamiment this summer.

Top names

Mt. Airy, the site which has gained a warm spot in every entertainer's heart, has a top-flight name every week. "Class" entertainers like Jane Morgan and Gordon MacRae have adorned the stage at the fabulous Crystal Room which seats 3,000.

Actually, practically every resort has stage shows nightly and, of course, dancing prevails nightly at the 260 holiday paradise comprising the four-county Pocono Mountains region.

Rowena Stevens' Pocono Playhouse again is the magnet for first nighters and lovers of first-class stage productions. "Sweet Charity" inaugurated Mrs. Stevens' 22nd season. The musical hit continues at the Mountainhome playhouse until June 29.

Next comes Chester Morris and Barbara Britton in Henry Denker's "What Did We Do Wrong" (July 1-6), followed by Rosemary Prinz in "A Girl Could Get Lucky" (July 8-13).

"Showboat," the indelible musical, will be featured for two weeks (July 15-27). In succeeding weeks Darryl Hickman, Shirley Booth, Geraldine Page, Betty Field, George Gobel and Mike Kellin will headline productions at Pocono Playhouse.

Newfoundland Arts Center, the theatre-in-the-round in Wayne County, will usher in a new season under the banner of the Court Players. July 8 will inaugurate the first of four special Monday night features, starting off with Harold Pinter's one-act play "The Birthday Party."

Other offerings by the Court Players will be "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf" (July 4-13), "East Lynne" (July 17-27), "Suddenly Last Summer" (July 31-August 6), and "A Thousand Clowns" (August 14-24).

Cultural music fans can get their fill at the Mid-Atlantic Music Center at Mountainhome. The big-tent operation will have Metropolitan Opera stars, including Jose Iturbi, the incomparable pianist. The Curtis String Quartet will be featured on several occasions as will the Mid-Atlantic Symphony, made up of the finest music students in the world.

Mid-Atlantic Music Center opened last week and will continue with concerts through July and August.
